VOLUME XXI

Rogers Printing Company, Dixon and Chicago

This book is an expression of the life at Illinois; the result of many thoughtful hours and earnest efforts. We offer it as a part of our contribution to the forward movement of our university. It has been our aim to make this a book of memories-- memories that are both pleasant and worth while. We have endeavored herein to catch a spark of the Greater Illinois Spirit that they who read may feel again the thrill of Undergraduate days and join with us in an expression of our love for Illinois and of our determination to do her honor and prove worthy of her name.

President Edmund Janes James, The Man

HERE is no spirit of independence like that of a boy sure of his dinner, as was remarked by the Sage of Concord. It is the spirit that investigates traditional holies and finds the shams they have accumulated. When this spirit can be carried on and united with the experience and judgment of maturity, men of notable and individual action must result. Until recently the University world has not developed many men of this type; trimming the wick of the Lamp of Learning being a particularly sure way to bring on an explosion.

However, there are those who must act, explosion or no explosion. And President Edmund J. James of the University of Illinois is among those who have ventured. He has compelled knowledge to meet the needs of daily living in ways that often seemed foreign to it.

He is an Illinois product—the feeling of its prairies is his own life-feeling. With an unusual perception of truth, he realized this early and followed the prompting of his spirit rather than the advice of his friends in making Illinois the scene of his best work, refusing flattering offers from such institutions as Halle and Harvard to do it.

He was educated in Illinois except for a year at Harvard and two years of study in preparation for his doctor's degree in the German University of Halle. He took his doctor's degree in 1877 at the age of twenty-two years thereby throwing the German Government into confusion, as he was ready for the examination a full year before schedule time and a special dispensation was necessary before it could be given. The University of Halle did what proved to be the ordinary thing in his career—offered him a position within its halls—but he declined in order to return to his native state.

AT THE AGE OF 18

BIRTH PLACE AT JACKSONVILLE, ILL.

His first position was as principal of the high school in Evanston. From there he went to Normal as principal of the High School Department of the Illinois Normal University. In 1883 he took his only excursion as a teacher out of the state when he went to the University of Pennsylvania to accept the directorship of the Wharton School of Finance, a position that gave his peculiar talents wide scope. He returned to Illinois in 1896 as professor of public administration and director of University Extension work of the University of Chicago. He was there until 1902 when he left to become the president of Northwestern University which position, after holding two and one-half years, he relinquished to become the president of the University of Illinois. It is an unique record for a native of the state to serve three of its own universities in such important capacities.

It was during the Wharton School period that much was begun in him. In no uncertain way his action showed the unmistakable bias of his life. It had already been hinted at. During the time he was principal of the high school department at Normal, he with Professor De Garto, now head of the Department of Education at Cornell University, founded and for some time conducted the Illinois School Journal. Its purpose was to awaken and inspire the teacher; to let the outsider, even to the humble parent, into the mysteries that had become wrapped around the acquisition of knowledge; in short, to shed light where darkness was often more comfortable. The paper, under another name, is still one of the important school publications of Illinois.

While at the head of the Wharton School he proposed the then revolutionary scheme of training men in the fundamental principles of business. At that time about all that was offered to appease the knowledge-hunger was the old time classical curriculum which was supposed, mysteriously, to fit a man for anything; to give him a pair of intellectual seven league boots, in fact, so that he could outdistance the other fellow in whatever he chose to undertake. Doctor James voiced the unique idea of actually training for business the young man who intended to go into business. So true was his vision that in 1891 the American Bankers Association sent him to Europe to see what he could find there that would help him in the development of his courses. It was while he was in the Wharton School that he voiced the possibility of a School of Railway Administration—and in 1906 what had once seemed like the figment of an active brain became a fact upon the campus of the University of Illinois.

Doctor James published much during the time he was in this Wharton School. A monograph upon the government in its relation to the forests resulted in the establishment of the Pennsylvania State Forest Association, the first association of the kind in the United States. Nor was his "City Administration in Germany" less dynamic, resulting as it did in two important monographs dealing with city control of railway and canal organizations and rates.

Nor was Doctor James a "closet-citizen" during this busy time. He breathed the air of the street and he understood its speech. He was the first President of the Philadelphia Municipal League out of which grew that most powerful force, the National Municipal League.

It was during this period, too, that he and several colleagues organized the American Academy of Political and Social Science which has always included in its ranks active and prominent members of all schools and beliefs.

His two years at the head of Northwestern were notable for the work he did in organization. He had by this time a sure sense of values and whatever did not respond to it had to tell him why.

The task of organization, of creating and making permanent a machine that could run so large an institution as the University of Illinois was gigantic and complex. The work of gaining the one-mill tax was especially putting, as it did, the University squarely upon its own feet instead of where its first concern must be to keep off the horns of individual legislators. During the presidency of Doctor James he has been significant in meeting the people directly. They are taken into the class rooms and confidence of the University as never before.

IN NAPLES 1889

Nor is the President's vision in affairs educational confined to his own state. He is at present working for a federal grant to elementary and secondary education for vocational training. It would do for the secondary and elementary schools what the Land Grant Act has done for the Universities. He is also working on a plan for a National University to be located in Washington, D. C. It will accept only graduate students.

It would be unfair, to leave President James without some mention of his womenfolk, as no force yet discovered can do more to make or mar a man. He was fortunate in his chance of a mother and his choice of a wife. His mother was a woman of unusual poise, being herself always; and no echo of another. She had an unusual reverence for the teaching profession and that reverence she has been able to hand down liberally. Besides President James, in educational work, another son is Dean of the College of Liberal Arts in the University of Minnesota, and two are professors, while a daughter left teaching to become the wife of the president of Girard College.

His wife (nee Lange), is the daughter of a well-known divine of Halle. She is a woman of keen perception; this combined with the breadth of vision given by an unusual education has made her able intelligently to cheer when affairs seemed too tangled to admit of cheer. Nor has she kept her encouragement at home as many a homesick bride or worried young mother in the field of her husband's work can testify. The President and Mrs. James have two sons, Anthony, a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy, Herman an assistant Professor of Political Science in the University of Texas, a daughter, Helen, at home, and a very youthful grandchild, the daughter of Professor Herman James.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. EDMUND JAMES JAMES AND FAMILY

Ten Years of Progress in the University of Illinois

F a true measure of progress is to be taken it must cover a considerable period of time. The day as it passes may be instinct with advancement but an adequate expression of it cannot be separated from the bulk and clutter of the day's work. The years teach much that the days fail to show.

In reviewing the history of the University of Illinois during the past decade one cannot but be struck by the fruitfulness of its accomplishment. Everywhere now its work is the work of authority. Men of the highest scientific attainments come here to take positions and graduates of the best Colleges and Universities at home and abroad are coming for graduate work and men of such calibre and maturity do not come through chance—they are drawn by opportunity.

Nor with expansion has the University lost the rugged individuality that characterized it at its founding. While traditional subjects of study have been strengthened and developed, the standard in expansion has not been conformity to educational authority nor to what outside educators expect, but to what is needed to widen opportunity for the student and for the people of the State itself.

President Edmund James James who came to the University in 1904 is himself an Illinois product, voluntarily serving his native state. Twenty-two years in the Corn-Belt and twelve of them in the service of the educational institutions of the state has prepared him to know the needs, the conditions, the limitations, and the folks with which he had to deal. Then too, the fifteen years in the institutions of the East and Universities of the old world had given him breadth of vision and experience. And comprehensive knowledge is a safe basis for large accomplishment.

The accomplishment was possible because the foundations of the University were in the beginning laid true. Johnathan B. Turner invoked the spirit for the work when he said as early as 1851 that to artisans, merchants and farmers was due as adequate educational courses as lawyers and doctors were receiving. "And," he added with pertinent sturdiness, "it is our own fault that we do not also enjoy them."

Is not that the spirit that would hitch the worker's wagon to a star and make a chariot of it?

The first president, or regent, as he was called then, John Milton Gregory, served the University in its youth through thirteen trying years. He urged higher education upon the young people of the state often at a farmer's gathering from the back of a farmer's wagon. And he held fast to the spirit that would offer science to the tiller of the soil and the engineer at a time when the spirit was struggling sadly with financial need and discouragement. During the presidency of Dr. Selim H. Peabody, who followed Dr. Gregory in 1880, the Agricultural Experiment Station was founded, a strong factor in the future development. When Dr. Peabody resigned in 1891, Johnathan T. Burrill, Professor of Botany and Horticulture, was made acting president. He had come to the University in 1868 and he understood its needs and problems thoroughly. The period of his service was one of marked expansion made possible by the absolute frankness with which Dr. Burrill asked for large sums of the legislature instead of curtailing his requests to the lowest possible amount. During this time the Graduate school was organized, the first fellowships instituted, and the faculty authorized to define the requirements for doctors' degrees. Also the departments of Municipal and Sanitary Engineering were created as well as that of Architectural Engineering.

In 1894 Dr. Andrew Sloan Draper came to the University as president. During his administration the College of Physicians and Surgeons, the College of Dentistry and the School of Pharmacy, all located in Chicago because of the excellent clinical facilities, were added to the University. The State Library School was established in Urbana, also the College of Law, and the Engineering Experiment Station. The social interest of the student body began to press their claims insistently upon a busy faculty. Students often needed advice and no one had time to give it; moreover liberty was frequently tweaking the sober nose of justice when those in authority were greatly occupied in mind; therefore a Dean of Women and a Dean of Men were appointed. Appropriations were largely increased and an amazing vitality especially in the Agricultural College pervaded the whole University. The coming of men like Davenport, Mumford, Blair, and Hopkins marked an epoch not only in Agriculture but in the general interests of the University.

Thus when Edmund Janes James was elected president August, 1904, he found the foundations laid true. It was therefore unnecessary to delay the progress begun by remodeling and tearing out. Besides it suited the characteristics of the new president to accept without hesitation whatever of the past was sound. Development was not only undelayed but even accelerated.

In his inaugural address President James marked out the lines along which, in his opinion, progress should be made. They were as follows:

1. The University will stand for higher education of women. It will create new opportunities for them in the field of higher education.
2. The University is destined to be a great civil service academy.
3. The University is the scientific arm of the state government.
4. The University will integrate the educational forces of the state.
5. Finally, the state university represents the corporate longing of the people for higher things in the field of education.

How far have these ideas been given body? A glance over the last ten years proves that they have been fitted out with corporealities against which the wind of circumstance blows in vain.

Let us look at the first of these ideas. It cannot be denied that in the field of higher education for women there has been notable advancement. The Household Science department, thanks chiefly to Miss Bevier, backed up by the president, has taken its place among the foremost university departments of its kind.

Just what does this mean? No less than the opening of new professions for women along the traditional lines of their activity. There is an ever increasing demand for women competent to fill such positions as dietitian and institutional manager. When the housekeeping expert whose business it will be to look over housekeeping arrangements, point out weak places and suggest cures, shall come into her own as the soil expert has come into his own in agriculture, it is to such institutions as Illinois that it will be necessary to look for trained service. The department has a research assistant, one of the few in this country, whose business it is to bring science to bear upon the problems of the home. Such problems as why jelly does not always jell or why bread in baking curls up from the bottom of some pans and not from others are problems that have been met and valiantly forced to yield their reasons. And a reason yielded is a dead problem.

The Woman's Building where the Household Science department is housed, is one of the largest on the campus, an addition having been built recently. The department serves luncheons every day, sometimes to several hundred people in a commodious room on the second floor. The cafeteria plan is followed and the buying, cooking and serving offer laboratory work of a unique and valuable kind.

There are at present about one thousand young women students in the various colleges of the University and this number undoubtedly will be materially increased as soon as the new Woman's Residence Hall, for which appropriation has been made, shall be built. The sorority houses, various church homes, and the Y. W. C. A. building offer excellent living accommodations to young women as far as they go, but they do not go nearly as far as the young women.

Now the development of the work for women has been given somewhat in detail because it typifies the sincerity of development that has taken place along all lines. That this has been so is no matter of chance. It has not been accomplished without severe thought on the part of someone; an honest blunder ever being easier to make than a wise decision.

The sincerity of the work in general, the closeness with which the glove of science has been made to fit upon the hand of life, could not be better proven than by the fact that men who develop special force within the university are being called to exceptional work outside. This year W. F. M. Goss, Dean of the College of Engineering, is in the employ of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce in charge of its smoke abatement project. Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins is in the employ of the Southern Settlement and Development Company, an organization comprising seventeen southern states that would raise their soils to maximum of efficiency for the sake of citizenship. These are positions of the greatest responsibility, carrying high salaries and it means much that the University has offered to such men the opportunity for development. Nor is it only individual men who are being called upon. The spring of 1913 was a time of dangerous floods. When the Illinois river broke its bounds, Governor Dunne sent for the men of the State Water Survey and placed at their disposal the Steamship Illinois, their work being to go from place to place in order to purify water supplies and generally counteract the unsanitary conditions attendant upon a flood. Just what this work saved in money and suffering cannot be estimated, it being so far impossible to count corpses that do not occur. The work and the men of the Mine Rescue Station were weighed in the balance and found gloriously adequate at the time of the Cherry Mine disaster. Other means, which do not exhaust the list but merely hint at it, by which the university stretches its long scientific arm over the state, are the State Geological Survey, the State Soil Survey, whereby every county in the state will be, in time, surveyed and its soil type fixed; the Entomologist's office which has saved the state much by devising means to kill such pests as the cinch bug and the corn root aphid; and the Ceramics Department.

The last mentioned department established in 1914, has attracted widespread attention. Experimentation has shown that Illinois is fully capable of producing practically all of her own clay products and he who teaches a clay bank to blossom with profit deserves to rank with that oft mentioned human abstraction who coaxes out two grass blades where only one is in habit of growing. In January, 1913, the Department rather tentatively offered a short course to clay manufacturers. So enthusiastic were those who came that it was given again this year with a doubled attendance. The science that fattens the pocket book does not have to beg for attention.

Another notable short course given this year by the Engineering College was the School for Highway Engineers. Professor Ira O. Baker, who has been with the University for forty years, was the originator. And even he who is something of a prophet by reason of alertness and experience, was astonished at the number that thronged to the lectures and machinery demonstrations.

Not only does the practical man come into the University for the expert, as in the case of Dean Goss and Dr. Hopkins, the University also goes out into the work of affairs for the practical man. The director of the Shop Laboratories, B. W. Benedict, is himself an engineer of many years experience in railroad affairs. He has introduced shop methods of efficiency, those methods that make life hard for the laggard and the day dreamer at toil. Naturally this must develop men who will not find the transition from the University workshop to the Big Company shops very difficult. It is certainly a sane move since in the beginning power of brain followed upon power of hand, and in the development of the individual it repeated the story of the race-development.

A mere list of men notable in the life of the University, shows what a vigorous and free atmosphere will bring forth. It is the opportunity of a developing University that has brought forth and kept men like Talbot, Ricker and Baker; also Greene, Daniels, Rolfe, Barton, Moss, Townsend, Carmen, Parr, Grindley and other wheel horses of the nineties together with a host of younger men who have been encouraged to live themselves out to the limit of their capacity.

So much then for the nature of the progress of the last ten years. If space were unlimited it might be traced through many more departments and all would exhibit the same trend. The aim has been at a full and real development. An apple grower does not expect to raise prize apples on last spring's saplings but an educator who has not a masterful comprehension of conditions may try to raise the fruits of wisdom from brains in the saphead stage.

Therefore, it is upon a basis that meets conditions as honestly as the really successful business man meets them, that a phenomenal result has come. And the University has gained greatly in prestige, just as any institution dealing in any commodity from brains to biscuits, will that takes account of real needs and supplies them. The many professorships, some newly established in the last two years, and the men who have been called to fill them, reveal the firm purpose to serve intelligently and truly. Not politics, not the church nor the family have been allowed to exert the slightest influence in the choice of men for the faculty, fitness alone has been the test. They have had to prove themselves before being invited. Professor Charles K. Babcock, who came this year as Dean of the combined college of Liberal Arts and Science, was formerly Specialist in Higher Education, Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C. Dr. William Trelease, Professor of Botany and head of the department of Botany who fills the place made vacant by the retirement from active service of Dr. T. J. Burrill, formerly was director of the Missouri Botanical Garden at St. Louis; Dr. Frank L. Stevens, Professor of Plant Pathology came from the University of Porto Rico where he had served as Dean of the College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts; Loring Harvey Provine, Professor of Architectural Engineering and Acting head of the Department of Architecture, formerly was Superintendent of Construction, Storm and Webster Engineering Company; and Dr. Charles H. Kohnson, Professor of Secondary Education, formerly was Dean of the School of Education in the University of Kansas. This by no means exhausts the list of prominent educators who have come to the University recently, nor is it given for that purpose. It indicates merely the trend in the selection of men for the faculty that characterizes the policy of the University. Men of wide experience, of thorough training and established reputations, are chosen for the important positions. As is but natural, exact and enthusiastic teaching has resulted. The rumor of it has gone abroad and students come not only from all the states of the union but from Europe and the Orient.

Through the School of Education under the directorship of Dr. William Bagley, and through the efforts of the High School Visitor, Professor Horace Hollister, the secondary education of the state is finding the University of a powerful force in its advancement. By sending teachers into the state and into other states who are trained to express themselves in their profession, the University finds one of the surest tests of its efficiency.

The University has recognized the important work of the Independent Colleges of the state and with them most cordial relations have been established. Unity of action is secured with academies, high schools, Normal schools, and in fact with all the educational forces of the state.

It is unfortunate not to be able to tell in detail how the courses in Business Administration comprise eight well defined courses, General Business, Commerce, Consular Service, Banking, Insurance, Accountancy, Railway Administration, and Journalism. It is almost a sin not to tell of the recent work of such men as Dr. William Noyes who has been head of the Chemistry Department since 1907, or the work of our historians; or of Dr. Stephen A. Forbes, the Entomologist, but it would be a shame indeed to crowd up the jokes that are waiting for space in this book. So the professors and the departments will have to remember that this is a student publication and crowd up accordingly. The table appended gives the mere statistics of growth and they are large enough to be interesting reading.

A word of the Graduate School. Quoting Vice-President David Kinley, to whose energy and devotion so much of the progress of the last ten years is due, as to its purpose in contrast with the undergraduate work: "The undergraduate department retails knowledge already established, while the graduate school aims to discover new knowledge." As the unfolding of truth means the unfolding of mankind, it certainly seems a narrow minded and self-limiting policy that would hamper or curtail scientific research.

In the development of the University this massive machine for the intellectual and spiritual uplift of mankind, President James has followed the policy of taking the people completely into his confidence. He has not worked in the shade and then flashed out his result to astonish them. He has told his aim, revealed his plan, and then asked for help. He certainly received it when he put through the one-mill tax by which the finances of the institution were placed upon a firm basis. At the time when the Medical College was attacked he spent little time in defense of the College. He admitted the faults and pointed out new ones not neglecting to mention, however, remedies that might be applied in case the people of the state desired sound instruction for the sake of their bodies. The result was a reorganization of the Medical College. Convincing people of a sore place and then helping them heal it is a better policy in the end than denying the sore place; just as a life saving operation is better for a patient, than a good, thorough post-mortem examination.

The University of Illinois endeavors to keep in vital contact with the best thought and movements in our own country and with those of foreign countries. One of the helpful means of accomplishing this has been the visits of many of the leading university professors and scientists of other countries. Among these are Professor Hans Gadow of Cambridge University, England, who lectured on Zoological subjects; Professor Edward Meyer of the University of Berlin, who gave a series of lectures on Political Institutions and Ideas of Ancient Greece; Professor Josef Redlich of the University of Vienna and a member of the Imperial Parliament of Austria; Professor Bedier of the University of Paris and many others who are equally well known.

Even a brief review is not complete without a few statements in regard to student activities during the decade.

A healthy development of student life has been going on at the University of Illinois. As the number of students has increased and interests have become more diverse, there has been a consequent addition of student activities and organizations. The number of fraternities and sororities have greatly increased. They are better organized and on the whole more nearly fulfil their purpose. Many of them now own their own houses, the properties being worth many hundred thousand dollars. New literary societies, new honorary and professional societies, and new clubs have been organized. The Cosmopolitan Club is an unique student enterprise. The Students' Union, the most comprehensive organization on the Campus, has come into existence and is gradually taking up important functions and duties that concern the entire University body.

Two important buildings, devoted to the development of the social and religious interests of the students, have been erected near the Campus. The first of these to be erected was the Y. M. C. A. building. With its dormitory, bowling alleys, auditorium, and parlors it has served for five years a great need of the community

THE NEW HORTICULTURAL BUILDINGS

The Y. W. C. A. building was occupied only last year and it is fulfilling its purpose equally well for the young women. The University has been fortunate in having the cooperation of the churches of the state. Through their efforts Osborn Hall, the girls' home built by the Episcopal church, the Presbyterian House for girls, and numerous church buildings near the campus have been erected.

The University always has stood for clean athletics. During the period of which we are writing, athletics, under the leadership of George Huff, strongly supported by the President, has established still more firmly its reputation for high standards in all lines of athletic sports. Nor has the high moral standard been confined to athletics, the petty graft that used to cast odium upon student publications has been eliminated. Higher standards of student code of action have been established. The significance of this can not be overrated for while it is difficult to raise a student code of action once established the laws of the Medes and Persians are no more firmly fixed.

On June 7, 1912, Thomas Jonathan Burrill, Ph.D., L.L.D., tendered his resignation as Vice-President of the University of Illinois. For more than forty-six years he has served this great institution in the double capacity of educator and administrator. As a botanist and a teacher of that science he has been ranked with the foremost men of the country. As an executive, his courageous generalship, his conscientious care, his wise, almost unerring judgment has made his services invaluable. An honorable retirement is, in a way, a fitting climax to his long and eventful career.

It was not until July 2, 1913, that it was made known that David Kinley, Ph.D., L.L.D., had been appointed to the chair recently vacated by Dr. Burrill. The peculiar talents of this man were particularly adapted to the position offered him. He possesses that combination of the theoretical and the practical, together with a tenacious progressiveness, which marks the successful man of today. The remarkable progress and efficient organization of the Graduate School but hints at this latent ability. It would be difficult, indeed, to find a man whose accomplishments better fitted the requirements of the position, than do those of Dean David Kinley.

KENDRIC CHARLES BABCOCK, Ph.D., Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences was born in Brookfield, New York on September 8, 1864. In 1889 he received the degree of Litt. B. from the University of Minnesota, six years later the A. M., of Harvard University, and in 1896, the Ph.D., of the same institution. He has served on the faculties of the University of Minnesota, the University of California, and the University of Arizona. In 1910 he was appointed to the United States Bureau of Education, with the title of Specialist in Higher Education. This year he gave up the work of the Bureau, to become the head of the united colleges of Literature and Arts, and of Science. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta and Phi Beta Kappa.

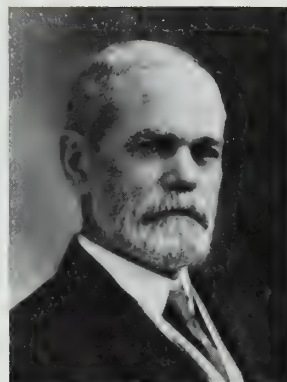

CHARLES RUSS RICHARDS, B.M.E., M.E., M.M.E., Professor of Mechanical Engineering, Acting Dean of the College of Engineering, Acting Director of the Experiment Station, was born at Clark's Hill, Indiana, on March 23, 1871. He prepared in Purdue University, receiving the B. M. E. and M.E. of that institution in 1890, while five years later he was conferred the degree of M.M.E. by Cornell University. Between 1892-98 he was Adjunct Professor and Professor of Practical Engineering in his Alma Mater, resigning to become Professor of Mechanical Engineering and Dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Nebraska. He came to the University of Illinois in 1911 to take charge of the Department of Mechanical Engineering, and during the leave of absence of Dean Goss, has taken over the duties of Dean of the College of Engineering. He is a member of Sigma Chi, Tau Beta Pi, Sigma Xi, and Sigma Tau.

THOMAS ARCLE CLARK, B.L., Professor of Rhetoric and Dean of Men, was born at Minonk, Illinois, on May 11, 1862. He received his B.L. degree from the University of Illinois in 1890, and since 1893 has been a member of the faculty. After two years as instructor in English, and four as Professor of Rhetoric, he spent a year in study at Harvard University, returning again to Illinois as Professor of Rhetoric. In 1904 he was appointed Dean of the Undergraduates, becoming Dean of Men in 1909. Dean Clark is a member of Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Beta Kappa.

EUGENE DAVENPORT, M.Agr., L.L.D., Dean of the College of Agriculture, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and Professor of Thremmatology, was born in Woodland, Michigan, on June 20, 1856. After graduation from Michigan Agricultural College, in 1878, he took up farming, only leaving it in 1889, to become Professor of Agriculture at the Michigan Agricultural College. Two years later he accepted the directorship of the Collegio Agronomica, and agricultural college in Brazil, South America. At the University of Illinois he has been Dean of the College of Agriculture since 1895, Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station since 1898, and Professor of Thremmatology since 1901. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta and Alpha Zeta.

OLIVER ALBERT HARKER, A.B., A.M., L.L.D., was born in Newport, Indiana, on December 14, 1846. He was graduated from McKendree College in 1866, receiving his Master's degree two years later. Further preparation was also obtained from study in the Law School of the University of Indiana and practical work in a lawyer's office. In 1878, he became Judge of the Circuit Court, First Circuit of Illinois, in 1891, Judge of the Appellate Court, Second District, and in 1897, of the Third District. Judge Harker's first connection with the University was as a special lecturer in Law, and it was not until 1903 that he accepted the title of Dean of the College of Law and Professor of Law. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi and Theta Kappa Nu.

MARTHA JACKSON KYLE, A.M., who this year assumed the duties of Acting Dean of Women, was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1897, and received the A.M., degree one year later. While in the University she was a member of the English Club, Alethenai, Y. W. C. A., Phi Beta Kappa, and on the "ILLIO" Board. Miss Kyle has also studied at both the University of Chicago and Columbia University. She has been instructor in English and Rhetoric since 1899, and during the year 1905-'06, was Assistant Dean of the Undergraduates.

College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is organized and administered primarily for the purpose of furnishing a liberalized training in the humanities and the sciences. It aims to meet the needs and tastes of different classes of students whether they desire to spend two, three, or four years in laying broad, well-proportioned foundations for efficient citizenship and in establishing a sympathetic, discriminating understanding of various fields of human interest and endeavor. Provision is made for the students who would work towards professions like law, medicine, education, social service, and journalism, and for those who wish to make more immediate specialization, for example in chemistry, ceramics, business administration, and household science. The curricula for the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science have differing proportions of prescribed, group, and elective courses, but each one emphasizes as a rule, not directly the purely vocational training, but rather the opportunities for testing capacity and interest, for enlarging, enriching, disciplining, and stimulating the whole man or woman, for preparing both for a contributory service to a family and to society and for insuring a wise use of a measure of leisure rightly earned.

College of Engineering

The courses in the College of Engineering afford a broad training in the mathematical and physical sciences and in a great variety of technical subjects, including architecture, architectural engineering, civil engineering, electrical engineering, mechanical engineering, municipal and sanitary engineering. As they are now presented, each of these courses requires certain work in English, language and economics, but the amount of this work is felt to be inadequate to the best training of those who become leaders in the Nation's industrial and business activities. To remedy this defect, the curricula of the college of Engineering have been recently revised to include an increased amount of liberal or non-technical work, and these new courses will shortly become effective.

✻ The existence of the College of Engineering has been fully justified by its growth in student attendance and by its contributions to the science of engineering. This year the total enrollment of the undergraduate students in the College is 1178, making it the second college in the University in size since the recent consolidation of the College of Science and the College of Literature and Arts, and placing it among the first four or five technical institutions in America.

Since its organization, the College of Engineering has graduated 2165 students, of whom over 89% are engaged in occupations demanding technical knowledge and training offered by the College. It is interesting and significant to note that 1090 of its alumni, or little over one-half of the total numbers of its graduates, are residents of Illinois. It may be safely stated that these men have had an important influence on the industrial development of the State.

The Engineering Experiment Station, an organization within the College of Engineering, was authorized by the Board of Trustees on December 8, 1903, to stimulate research in engineering and thus render service to the manufacturing railway, mining and other industrial interests of the State and the Nation. Seventy bulletins have been published by the Station, presenting the results of the investigations already completed. These publications have been very favorably received by the engineers of the country, and they have been a potent factor in extending the influence and increasing the prestige of the College of Engineering.

College of Agriculture

The primary purpose of the Agricultural College and Experiment Station is the development of better farming and better country life in Illinois. This the Station seeks to accomplish through experiments and publications; the College through instruction to students.

A better agriculture is not only one that is more profitable to the farmer, but it is one that is more serviceable to all the people who are dependent upon the farm for their food. It is one that is more permanent and in the long run more reliable than anything that has yet been developed. The benefits of better farming, therefore, are not confined to the farmers themselves, but they will be felt by all classes of people, in the city as well as in the country.

The first advantage of a better country life will of course be to the farmers themselves and to their families, but ultimately this improved agriculture will reach upon all the people, for it will tend to retain in the country a fair proportion of the best men and women, without whom the lands cannot be well employed nor a maximum product secured.

College of Law

It is the aim of the College of Law to furnish its students with such a training as will best fit them for the practice of law. A mere knowledge of what the law is will not suffice. The student must learn the reasons that have made it what it is. These can only be mastered by studying the law in the light of its historical development. No special course is offered on the history of the law; but it is sought to present each subject so that the principles peculiar to it may be historically understood. It is also the aim of the College that the courses should be so presented as to familiarize the student with the legal methods of reasoning and to equip him with legal habits of thought. It is believed that the case method of instruction, properly understood and applied, is best adapted to accomplish these objects.

It is an especial aim of the school to fit men for practice in the state of Illinois. To that end the court decisions, statutes, and procedure of this state are emphasized.

School of Music

The School of Music established in 1897, opened this year with better prospects than ever before in its history.

So little seems to be known about the School that it may startle the readers to learn that its requirements for a degree are much more severe than is generally realized. While the attendance seems to grow slowly, it should be noted that during the past five years, standards have been repeatedly raised. The abolition of the Academy affected the School of Music more perhaps than any other College. It is probable also that the School of Music receives more students from other departments in proportion to its entire enrollment, than any other college, so that the number of students taking work in the School is very much larger than its published figures would indicate.

It is the aim of the School to develop Musicianship in its broadest sense; that is, to associate professional requirements with culture and academic activities. Besides the Degree Course, there is also a Certificate Course given in Public School Music, for the purpose of supplying Supervisors of Music for the Schools thruout the country.

College of Medicine

After many years of loose and friable affiliation of the College of Physicians and Surgeons with the University of Illinois, an organic union between the two has at length been effected, and the University has now a real medical department. The act of absorption was performed at a meeting of the Board of Trustees, February 1, 1913, but the formal ceremony of "taking over" the College did not occur until March 5th following. The basis of the transaction was the donation to the University of all the stock of the Corporation of the College of Physicians and Surgeons. This donation was effected by the alumni association of the College, and the credit of the achievement is due in large measure to the indomitable courage and energy of Dr. Steele. He accomplished what no other man thought possible. The victory cost heavy financial sacrifices on his part and on the part of the faculty, alumni, and students of the College. The amount of the stock donated was $217,000.00.

The ceremonies connected with the transfer of the title to the University were held in the College building, President James presiding. President Abbot represented the Board of Trustees of the University and Dr. Steele the alumni association of the College.

Much has been accomplished in the direction of reorganizing and strengthening the freshman and sophomore courses of study. There are now nine full time professors and instructors engaged in these departments, some of whom are men of national renown. The old laboratories have been remodeled and their equipment improved and enlarged. There are now 450 students in attendance, who are receiving as good a medical training as is given in any medical college in Chicago.

W. E. QUINN.

College of Pharmacy

If a large attendance be accepted as a criterion, the School of Pharmacy of the University of Illinois is closing a most successful year.

The enrollment of junior students for the year amounts to one hundred and ninety-five—practically double that of the preceding year and exceeding in size any other class in the history of the School.

Chicago still furnishes more than half of the students, about a third are from Illinois outside of Chicago and less than a sixth from states other than Illinois. Four are from abroad, two from Porto Rico and two from Korea.

To care for this unprecedented influx of new students taxes the facilities of the school and necessitated the forming of additional laboratory classes with corresponding increases of the teachers' time and energies. Nevertheless, the instruction was given without a hitch and the results, judged by the success of the students before the state examinations, compare favorably with preceding years. In fact the success of the senior students in passing the state examinations cost the class several of its members. Three seniors qualified as licensed pharmacists in the examination held in Chicago in November, three more in Springfield examination in January and six in the Chicago examination in March. Three of these successful candidates for registered pharmacist's certificate received such tempting offers of employment, that they felt obliged to forego the privileges of graduation and left the class early in the year. Some twenty-odd junior students were successful in qualifying for the registered assistant's certificate at the March examination.

An interesting exhibit of the work of the students—a set of the liquid galenicals of the United States Pharmacopeia and National Formulary has been prepared during the last year, and has been installed in two large cases in the pharmacy lecture hall. Additions to the library, including a set of the new Encyclopedia Britannica and to the equipment of apparatus, especially microscopes and balances have also been made.

College of Dentistry

The College of Dentistry is a new institution; new in equipment; new in spirit, and new in hope.

Up to June 30, 1912, the department was owned and controlled by the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which was affiliated with the University of Illinois, changing its title to College of Medicine. The doors of the College of Dentistry were closed, and the charter, records and equipment transferred by purchase, to the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, at the close of the session of 1911-12, when the medical department withdrew from the University.

Upon the recommendation of President James, the Board of Trustees voted to reorganize the College of Dentistry. This action was taken in July, 1913. This called for a thorough renovation of the building, which lay idle for over a year, the purchase and installation of an entire new equipment, together with somewhat extensive structural changes. The catalogue was issued and the college opened for instruction October first with 94 students, forty-two Freshmen, eighteen Juniors and thirty-two Seniors. The Senior and Junior students were transfers from other dental Colleges.

President James conferred the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery upon twenty-eight candidates at the Commencement exercises held at the College May 29, 1914.

THE EQUIPMENT

The equipment is entirely new. The chairs in the infirmary were designed and built as a special order. Each chair is equipped with fountain cuspidor, running water, electricity, gas, compressed air, electric dental engine, and electric light.

In no other dental infirmary will be found such a complete equipment. Each of the following laboratories is fully equipped with modern apparatus: Histology, bacteriology, pathology, anatomy, physiology, chemistry, operative technics, prosthetic technics, radiography and photography.

The lecture halls are equipped with the latest model balopticon apparatus.

The College of Dentistry, University of Illinois, should be a leader in dental education in America. To this high ground we invoke the support of the alumni of the University.

DEAN MOOREHEAD.

Athletic Association

Recent developments in the field of physical exercise for college and university students make it apparent that the most progressive institutions in this work are emphasizing the encouraging work which was largely neglected in the not distant past. The two paramount ideas in the new creed are: First, Athletics for all students; Second, Athletics which are adapted for after life.

Excellent progress has been made at Illinois in the development of intramural sports. In fact the department of physical training has overtaken the facilities available for further progress in such athletics and at this moment is checked by the lack of room—both indoors and out. The athletic association has perhaps exceeded its province by diverting all its profits to the purchase of a tract of land for a playground, but even this ground demands a locker house and other improvements before it can be used. And even this playground will be unable to accommodate the needs of the men of the university. Right today we need double the number of tennis courts, and we should like to install many hand-ball and squash courts. The introduction of handball is greatly desirable and a number of courts, indoors and out, would furnish an activity that would instantly leap into great popularity. Although eastern universities I recently visited had many courts, the invariable complaint was that there should be more. Among our indoor needs are rooms for fencing, wrestling, and boxing. For a long time it has been a matter of regret that we could not satisfy the demand for ice skating by providing an artificial ice rink. Nothing would be more beneficial to the majority of students than a skating rink. It would provide the finest exercise in the world in the period of the year when the average student spends most of his time housed.

I have mentioned a growing idea to foster sports which the student may continue in after life. Golf, tennis, handball, swimming, and skating take first rank in this class, which is an added argument for more facilities for these sports.

GEORGE HUFF.

Graduate School

In its character and aim graduate school work is really professional, for a Graduate School is a school whose work, coming after the general education of the college course, furnishes that deeper insight into knowledge and that thorough and earnest training which mark the student who is working with a purpose.

Though facilities for research in various lines had existed at the University for many years, graduate work was first undertaken under the name of the Graduate School in 1892. In subsequent years the organization of this branch of the University was constantly strengthened to meet the increasing demand of the students, but till 1906 the School was maintained out of the general University funds. In 1906-7, however, the General Assembly appropriated $50,000 per year for the support of a Graduate School of the Arts and Sciences and this appropriation was continued by succeeding legislatures.

By this act the people of Illinois recorded their intention of supporting research the highest professional education to all the people. In pursuance of the purpose so indicated, the Trustees and the Administration have spared no pains to bring the Graduate School to the point where it shall offer instruction and equipment equal to that of any graduate school in the country.

The Graduate School offers more than four hundred and fifty courses, including practically all the educational departments of the University.

The degrees given in the Graduate School are the Master of Arts, the Master of Science, and professional engineering degrees, and that of Doctor of Philosophy.

SWIMMING POOL AT WATER CARNIVAL

The New Armory

The University is now building a huge new armory, which, when completed, will have the largest unobstructed floor space of any building in the world. This structure is in the old Horticultural grounds, which will now be used for a parade ground. The framework consisting of gigantic steel arches ninety-eight feet high, makes possible a wholly unobstructed floor space of 200 by 400 feet. Galleries along the two sides will provide seating for three thousand people. The frame and the roof, now completed, cost about $150,000, and the completed structure will cost over $350,000. Along each side of the drill hall the three-story portions of the building will provide company rooms, locker rooms, offices, and class rooms, while the entire third floor is being reserved for rifle ranges. Not only will this building furnish ample maneuvering ground for the largest cadet regiment in the country, but will be used for commencement exercises, short courses, and large meetings of state conventions. For the first time the University will be able to accommodate the throngs that attend such meetings.

BROAD JUMP INTERSCHOLASTIC 1913

The Interscholastic Track and Field Meet

By a margin of 5 points Zuppke's athletes from Oak Park won the 21st annual Interscholastic track and field meet Saturday morning, scoring a total of 34 points, while University High was second with 29. Lane Tech, which won the meet last year with 18 points, could only get 3 points and placed 18 in the field of 31 schools scoring.

The meet was held in disagreeable rainy weather under only fair conditions, two new records were made in competition and a third record beaten in exhibition. Foss of Univ. High by a leap of 11'6 3-8" broke the pole vault record which had stood since 1908, and his team mate Cory lowered his old record in the low hurdles by 4-5 of a second, going the route in the remarkable time of 25" flat, which equals the Illinois Varsity record. Bittenberg of Raymond won the shot put, and in an exhibition put made a mark of 50' 1" which broke Byrd's record of 49' 10".

Irish of Oak Park, as individual point winner, with a total of 16 points from 2 firsts and 2 seconds, was presented with the prize cup donated by Mawanda, the Illinois Honorary Senior Society. The relay was won by Oak Park with University High a close second, but both these teams were disqualified because of fouling and Springfield was given first place. In the tennis tournament the Weber brothers won the doubles in real championship form and Jerry, the elder of the two, won the singles with his smashing overhead stroke.

THE BROAD JUMP

The Interscholastic Circus

The greatest show on earth,—composed of a stupenduous collection of all kinds of acrobats, trapeze performers, wire-walkers, wild west riders, freaks, clowns, wierd and awful animals and high class fun artists of all types operating in three rings, was held Saturday night when the Eighth Annual Circus brought the 21st annual Interscholastic to a close. From the grand parade of all participants on Illinois Field to the Inter-sorority relay race, which was the final stunt, cause for laughter, interest and excitement was superabundant, and one could only complain that there were so many stunts going on at once that it was impossible to see and enjoy them all.

Thirty-five stunts of every kind, nature and description imaginable followed in quick succession in the longest parade ever held on Illinois field. The funniest and the jolliest of all clowns who had ever taken part in a circus; the wierdest and most awesome animals of doubtful descent—truly zoological wonders; hundreds of trained actors, dancers and performers of various kinds, aided by two University bands formed this most remarkable of all circuses.

Despite the threatening weather, a large crowd of over 8,000 people gathered early, and long before the grand parade started every seat was taken. 8000 people who had a laugh for every minute of the three hours and over that the fun continued.

The "Days of 49" in which the notable trick riding of F. D. Schobe,—which won him the championship of the wild west last year,—was a feature, presented by Alpha Sigma Phi, was awarded first prize as the best of the fraternity stunts. Schobe's riding has been an added attraction at the circus for the last three years, and all were glad when the Athletic Association presented him with a special cup for his performance. Sigma Nu with "Pathe Weekly" was given second place, and Phi Gamma Delta received third for their presentation of the "Fiji Broilers."

The prize for the large organizations was awarded to the Ag. Club's display "20 Men wanted for the United States Navy." The two battleships "Illinois" and "Chicago" staged a very realistic battle at sea with much fireworks—resulting in the very popular victory of the "Illinois."

"Abe" Gluck again proved himself to be the funniest man in school, by carrying off the honors as the best individual clown. Abe says he is going to turn professional. Babe Lichter received second place on his appearance as Chief of Police. R. Hill and E. Barrett in a "crush" stunt took first prize in the double clown contest, with J. Senneff and A. Gonsior second.

The circus was concluded by the Intersorority relay race which was won by the team representing Phi Beta. Alpha Chi Omega was second. The race was comparatively close throughout and with the searchlights playing on the runners as they circled the track, it furnished one of the novel events of the evening.

Chicago Baseball Game

The uncertainty of the game of baseball was proved to the sorrow of the Illini rooters by the results of the Chicago game Saturday afternoon. In direct contrast to the airtight game played the previous day, the Chicago game was tossed away by our boys through poor fielding. Though outhit by the Maroons the Orange and Blue would have won easily but for the piling up of such a record in errors. Excitement was plentiful during the game due to the frequent shifting of the score, and the rooters were kept on edge every minute of the game until the final out. A ninth inning rally was a failure by inches only, and the score stood 8 to 7 for Chicago.

Fletcher played the game of his life and his batting formed the feature of the game. His two home runs scored a total of 5 runs to his credit.

ILLINOIS VS. WISCONSIN

Wisconsin Track and Baseball

Wisconsin came, Wisconsin saw,—but Illinois conquered, and conquered decidedly, taking both the track meet and the ball game by decisive scores. Upsetting all predictions of a hair-splitting finish as doped out previous to the meet, the Illinoi team valiantly defended Gill's reputation as a coach and romped away in good form with the dual meet with the Badgers to the tune of 74 to 52; thereby wiping away all the stain of their defeat by Wisconsin in the Indoor Conference by 4-3 point.

For eight seniors this was the last dual meet for the Orange and Blue and they, as consistent point winners, again brought victory to Illinois by piling up a total of 38 points.

Cheered by the sudden appearance of a genuine made-to-order baseball day, the Illini, in the best game of the season were pitched to a victory of 9 to 0 by Captain "Snorky" Watts. Watts pitched a great game, allowing but one hit, and the whole nine worked like a machine in supporting him and in showing the Interscholastic crowd of 5000 how the Illinoi Team won their reputation.

Here again, Illinois revenged her previous defeat at the hands of the Badgers by a decisive score. Only 29 men faced Watts during the game as he completely outguessed the Wisconsin batters and had perfect support.

The Maypole Dance

Few of those who witnessed the elaborate pageant presented on Illinois Field Thursday night would have recognized in it the development of the first modest, unassuming Maypole dance held on the Back Campus fifteen years ago. The dance has constantly grown in size and attractiveness, and, ceasing to be an event of minor importance in our Interscholastic gaities, has come to be of decided interest to everyone.

This year the Girl's part in our Interscholastic was greater than ever before and they may be justly proud of their success. The charming girls, the graceful dancers, the veritable frolic of colors which greeted the large crowd was indeed an alluring sight—a fitting opening to our Gala Week—our Illinois Mardi Gras.

In gowns of solemn black came in the senior girls, encircled the maypole, sang and danced their fond farewell, and gracefully yielded their badge of authority—the ancient senior wand—to the seniors that were to be.

Miss Irma Latzer was prettily and gracefully crowned the Queen of May by Miss Emma Bursley, the maid of Honor, and her twelve attendants, who danced and courtesied their homage midst the plaudits of the appreciative crowd.

And then the struggle: Winter with chill winds and slow and stately steps; Spring, gathering her forces, charged bravely, and the fight was on. Charge, retreat, advance. Winter fighting for life and Spring for sunshine and happiness. Back and forth, each triumphant in turn, until at last, Winter, yielding, knelt to his lovely conquerors, and rising, joined with them in a final triumphant rejoicing dance—prophetic of the days to come.

THE MAY QUEEN AND MAID OF HONOR

Even the little chimney sweeps were there paying tribute to their Queen. Tiny children capered and danced around their diminutive pole and added to the joyousness of the scene by setting free varicolored balloons with their final courtesy. In the Archer's drill, which was a new feature at Illinois, we all feared for our lives from the fierce attack, but rejoiced to see the Queen so well protected. The arrows formed most unique mementoes for the lucky ones.

Impressive, stately and intricate, was the Grand Maypole—a maze of colors, ribbons and dancers in a Swedish May dance. Then came the dances of the nations; the Italian Sarantella and the Tarantella—surely a cure for any bite. The unique costumes of the Tyrolean dancers, the klank, klank of the wooden shoes, and the bright colors of the Gypsies, all formed a scene of grace and merriment.

The dance closed with a final ensemble of all, and a last obeisance to the Queen, and as we left not one of us but would have voted it a grand success.

MAY QUEEN AND ATTENDANTS

The Girl's Stunt Show

Everyone who saw the Girl's stunt show at the auditorium Thursday night declared themselves more than amply repaid for any weary wait in the early chilly dawn around inadequate bonfires for tickets. All said it was the best stunt show that Illinois had seen because of the uniform excellence of the stunts—a fact which made the decisions of the judges doubtful until the very last event.

The "Evolution of a Butterfly" which was brought to life through the transformation of a great green caterpillar by Delta Gamma was given the cup as the most finished stunt. The caterpillar was most realistic and the butterfly truly a marvelous one. Local University situations were clearly and amusingly characterized in clever adaptations in the "Mother Goose Rhymes" which won second place for Alpha Delta Pi.

Sigma Kappa opened the program by transferring us all through some wierd magic to a truly wondrous "Sunken Garden" where enchanting flowers sang sweetly and love reigned supreme. The Kappa's "Wayward Playground Coedna" pleased the audience and the Theta's gave us on a single stage the historic points of interest about the campus in "Land Marks." Surely the august body from Springfield should have been at hand to see themselves as portrayed by the Alethenai Literary Society in "A visit from the Lawmakers."

The record for university development was without doubt won by the Athenians in their "Because he went to College," in which a green freshman was transformed into a finished college "grad" in ten minutes. Did we see ourselves as others see us? In "Madame Firefly" the Alpha Chis gave us music and lights in attractive form, and the Chi Omegas beat the Campus scout at his own game in their presentation of the "Campus Flout." We all agreed with their annoying "Illinoiancés," vivid "sinza spring" and sat hushed when they put on the mysterious "soft pedals."

Phi Beta prophesied the Illinois future in glorious proportions in their "Illinois Expansion." They found their Utopia in the chilly land of the Eskimo where we were treated to a most realistic snow battle around the North pole. We felt at home with the D. I. and the C. S. and all longed for the land where the Illio comes out on time. The eternal contest between "Learning" and other college "activities" was staged by Illiola. Poor "Learning" was often shunned for more alluring possibilities and we got a highly edifying moral from the under current.

Butts Phelps, true to life, was given a place eternal among the immortals by the Alpha Xis in the "Last Inning" of a thrilling ball game. We are sure Butts would have voted the cup to them. Genuine geographical information was received in the A. O. P.'s "Here and there, Mostly There."

Phi Delta Psi, in a thrilling and awesome "Initiation" brought the program to a close and showed all how it was done. After the casting of fate deciding lots, the lucky ones were cast into an enormous melting pot where undesirable qualities were removed. Seasoning desired was then added, and they came forth in pure white perfection.

THE SACK RUSH SOPHOMORE-FRESHMAN SCRAP

Fourth Annual Home Coming

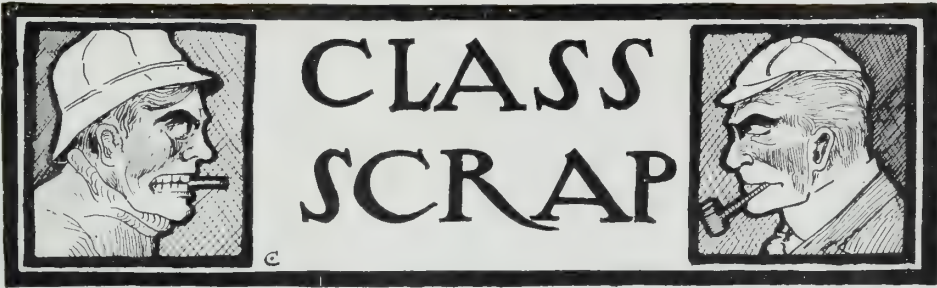

Little did the originators of the idea of an annual home coming realize to what extent their efforts were to materialize. Much argument was even used against the plan, fearing lest the May Festival might suffer as a result, but nevertheless it has been proved that Illinois is capable of supporting both occasions without either interfering with the other.

Alumni yearn for a glimpse of the old times and to hear the songs and to see the familiar haunts which fond memory has never allowed them to forget. From the North, the South, the East and the West they came, forgetting the trials and troubles of life, to mingle again with the friends of years ago. We, who sometimes feel burthened with college life, fail to grasp the situation and understand the feelings of these loyal people who stand ready to do all in their power for their Alma Mater and the Orange and Blue. The inspirations which they brought us and the spirit which existed between them shows us that Illinois spirit and democracy never dies.

It was with the greatest of pleasure that we gave them entire possession of their facilities and tried as best we knew to make them feel at home and that they were welcome guests. We hope that our efforts and pains were not in vain and that they were of such a character as to produce a favorable impression on our visitors. Thus a fourth home coming has passed into the annals of history and we find another custom more firmly and securely established at Illinois. Time comes and goes and life scenes change as rapidly as conditions did for Aladdin when he rubbed his wonderful lamp. Let us hope that in the years to come we as Alumni may come back to the scenes of our college days and again feel the thrill of joy which must come when we find ourselves in the midst of Illinois spirit and brotherhood.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

The Sack Rush

This year produced a new innovation for the annual Sophomore-Freshman class scrap when it was decided that the sack rush was to take the place of a push-ball contest. Long before the event it was decided that push-ball was to be a thing of the past as the danger of serious accident were far too great to allow the contest again. The main fault of the game being attributed to the fact that there was but one point of attack and too great a concentration of force in one place. The sack rush was held to be an appropriate substitute and by far less dangerous. The result of the contest in decided victory for the freshmen by a score of eighteen to nothing showed that the game was of such a nature that numbers counted more than experience. Thus it seems that the freshmen always out-numbering the sophomores by far will have a decided advantage and whether the sack rush will be retained, as a permanent thing is still a question.

The day of the scrap dawned cold and chilly, gloomy above, and wet under foot. Early in the morning both classes had assembled their forces and awaited anxiously the on-coming conflict. The freshmen were superior as numbers go, but the sophomores were confident that experience would win for them.

Slowly the long lines of freshmen, followed closely by those of the sophomores wound their way into the arena and took their places opposite the huge canvas sacks which had been distributed across the field. At the crack of the gun their was a rush for the sacks and the battle was on. Up and down the field they surged, faltering here, holding there, but finally after a few moments of play the superior numbers of the freshmen began to tell and the first sack was carried to the freshman goal. The saying that man's brute nature will sometimes crop out seemed to be manifest here. The men covered with mud and dirt fought like tigers and never until the final whistle blew did the defeated sophomores give up even though there was never a question as to whom the victory would belong. Here's all glory to the victorious class of 1917 and all praise to the defeated of 1916 who fell in the conflict in which numbers and not experience or science count.

READY FOR THE RUSH

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

THE RUSH FOR THE BAGS

On the Eve of the Battle

The mass meeting preceding the annual home coming game was something to be long remembered by all who attended. Every individual of the great assembly joined in the singing of Illinois Loyalty and was thrilled to the marrow as the least echoes of an Oskee-wow-wow died away. The auditorium was filled to its limit and many who came late were turned away. Short snappy speeches by the coaches and the members of the team were received with the greatest enthusiasm and now and then the pressure and the spirit of the occasion could be held back no longer and was given vent through long and hearty cheers. After an hour of these refreshing and inspiring exercises the meeting came to a close as the vast crowd sang Illinois Loyalty as only true Illini can.

After the mass meeting the Alumni were entertained at a smoker in the armory where plenty to eat and drink left nothing in the way of making merry. It was a glad occasion. Men who had not met for years again clasped hands and exchanged experiences which had come to them since they had last parted. A series of short talks by the older Alumni served as a fitting climax and finale to this glad occasion.

THE GAME

The keen rivalry between Purdue and Illinois was one of the most prominent features of the game. The men were drilled for the most grueling match of the year, and it was plain from the beginning that the condition of the men, as well as grim determination, would play an important factor in the final result. Thousands filled the bleachers even though the day was damp and disagreeable. Men of Illinois always back their teams to the finish and never permit anything to stand in their way of lending the most assistance.

The whistle sounded, and the dull thud of the kick as the ball was sent twisting through the air was plainly heard everywhere. Back and forth the teams surged, now one having the advantage and then the other. The men were fighting desperately, but neither seemed to best the other for more than a passing moment. Thus the game continued, with brilliant plays exhibited by both teams. The only element lacking at the finish for complete satisfaction was a victory for Illinois. The score of 0-0 explains more than words the true nature of the contest. We had done our best and that is all that could be expected.

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

Commencement, 1913

He who has not witnessed the last sad rites of the college year has missed an experience that is unique. On that beautiful June morning when the seniors say their formal goodbye, the campus presents a busy scene—upwards of six hundred seniors, P. G.'s, and faculty members in their sombre academic robes are forming a column of twos, blocks long, which begins and ends in front of the library.

At the head of the procession, the band in brightest array, awaits the signal to march. Close behind stand the University senators gaily decked with their doctoral hoods of many colors. The candidates for degrees follow; graduates first, and then the long train of seniors arranged according to their colleges.

All is ready. There is a flourish of trumpets, and the procession moves off to the opening bars of the slow dignified, old processional. As the column winds its way 'round old "Uni," we are gripped by a peculiar emotion, hard to describe, which goes with the commencement atmosphere. The old buildings have lost their suggestion of tasks to be done. For the first time, perhaps, the senior realizes that the "merriest days of youth" are over, and that he is leaving a place very much like home.

ON THE WAY TO THE AUDITORIUM

UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES

BAND AND SENIORS APPROACHING THE AUDITORIUM

The exercises in the auditorium are of a conventional nature. One would think the conferring of six hundred degrees to be a tiresome ceremony, but so perfectly is the scheme of action worked out that it is very interesting and expressive. Especially is this true of the awarding of the doctorates. Few indeed are they, among the audience, who do not confess admiration for the deserving ones upon whom the Orange and Blue hoods are placed.

Now comes the grand finale, which makes the day a long remembered one. The band, striking up a lively march, leads the column back to the plot in front of the library. Here they break ranks, close in together, and with bared heads and eyes not a little moist, the newmade alumni sing "By Thy Rivers" as they never sang before. This done there is much hand-shaking and wishing of good wishes as the crowd disperses to go its many ways.

THE LINE APPROACHING

The Post Exam Jubilee presented on the evening of February 10, at the auditorium was a decided success from start to finish. Not only were the stunts characterized by local color and genuine humor, but each one showed the results of long and thorough preparation. Considering the limited faculties of both stage room and lighting the effect could hardly have been more elaborate. The capacity of the auditorium was taxed to the limit, and long before the acts began the house was filled by those who came early in order to get good seats. Nevertheless lively music by a good orchestra kept the attention of the crowd preceding the program and between the acts.

Iris in "Follies of Hamlet" presented a sketch which was extremely humorous and at the same time showed the untiring efforts of the winners of first place. The plot of the skit involved a clever burlesque on Shakespear's tragedy, at the same time introducing many local settings. The costumes were very elaborate, being a combination of sixteenth century and modern styles.

Phi Sigma Kappa was given second place for the presentation of "An Evening with Dad." Musical numbers and well interpreted readings were the crowning features. The act was well arranged and presented.

Third place was won by Chi Beta in a skit entitled "Hurry -up Billy." The scene was laid in a college community and brought in some of the predicaments which students often find themselves in. The cast was small but showed the results of much effort.

The other organizations which participated and helped to make the Jubilee a decided success were Chi Phi, Kappa Sigma, Theta Delta Chi, and Acacia Fraternities, and College Hall Dormitory. The presentation of each was of a pleasing nature and helped to make this traditional event something to be long remembered.

Dedications

The University of Illinois continues to grow not only in numbers, but also in equipment. Within the last few years it has been unusually fortunate in securing new buildings and especially during the last year great improvement has been made. No less than two large and beautiful buildings were dedicated and presented to the University in that space of time.

On April 17, 1913, the Commerce Building was dedicated and presented to the University for the use of the Business School. This was a banner day in the history of that department, marking a great epoch in the development of that branch of study. Illinois can boast of being the only University in the west, which devotes a whole building to the study of business subjects. Hon. W. L. Abbott, of the Board of Trustees, formerly presented the building to the University in behalf of which it was accepted by President E. J. James.

Illinois has long been recognized as the best Engineering School in the West, and no little was added to the facilities for maintaining that reputation, when the Transportation Building and Railway Laboratories, were completed and presented to it. These place another cog in the great wheel of the Engineering School which is rapidly enlarging.

The Transportation building is largely devoted to the Railway Engineering department and is a wonderful improvement for that branch of the University. The increased enrollment in this school shows that this field of Engineering is rapidly developing and is worthy of more recognition. In connection with the building are the Railway Testing Laboratories which are the only laboratories of their kind in the west, and one of the largest in this country. They are fully equipped for running tests on the largest locomotives of the present day. The ceramics department has been greatly enlarged and much time and money has been used in producing adequate facilities for that school. Illinois is the only school in the world having such an outlay for this kind of work. The dedication address for these buildings was given by President E. J. James on May 9, 1913, in the auditorium, where the formal exercises were held.

The Illinois Agriculturalist is a monthly magazine published for the students of the College of Agriculture and the agricultural public, by the Agricultural Club. It is becoming more and more a farmers publication and is drawing away from the class of a strictly college publication.

The adoption of a definite style, the increase in the size and circulation of the publication, and certain well defined advances in the methods of management are all calculated to give stability and uniformity to the magazine in the future.

Following the policy of the last management, the final issue of the year has been turned over as a yearbook of the College of Agriculture. It is designed to bring before the farmers of the state, as well as their sons, the tremendous advance of scientific agriculture through the work of the experiment station, and the growth of the college during the past decade.

Commensurate with the growth of the influence of the institution, the Agriculturist has increased its circulation this year to more than 1800 copies, most of which have been placed in the hands of farmers in nearly every state in the Union and throughout Canada.

THE SIREN is just completing its third year as a University publication, or rather, as a "student publication," as it prefers to call itself. Devoting its attention to the humorous it has found a fertile field, and its continued improvement has already won it an enviable place in the list of campus "sheets."

Its ambition, says its editors, is not so much to be humorous entirely, as it is to be clever, and to present itself in the neatest and most finished form.

Bright, mirthful, dashing, and daring, THE SIREN snaps its fingers at the boasts of contemporaries and admits no college humorous magazine its peer. As for its popularity at home, probably no Illinois publication has more genuine support from the students than has THE SIREN.

Technograph Staff

The Technograph is published quarterly by a board of representatives from the various engineering societies. This board chooses from its membership an editor, business manager, and assistant business manager, whose duties are those ordinarily associated with those offices. The general policy of the magazine is determined by the Board.

The greater part of the magazine is given to the publication of articles of technical value written either by alumni of reputation in their profession or by local instructors and professors. The Editor solicits articles that are of general interest rather than those that treat of some highly specialized branch of engineering. Student contributions are favorably received. No less than twenty undergraduates saw communications of their own in print on the pages of The Technograph during the past year. The Department Notes contain memoranda of the proceedings of the engineering societies and news items outlining the society programs. To furnish a medium through which students' views may be expressed, and the results of investigations made by Illinois men may be published, rather than to specialize on purely technical articles as its name might suggest, is the policy of the Technograph.

One of the problems in the administration of the Summer Session is the development of an effective esprit de corps among the students. A good "college spirit" has a most beneficial influence on class work. Moreover it gives the students a feeling of personal attachment for the school. But with a brief session and with mature students, this "spirit" is hard to establish. A student paper such as the Summer Illini is a distinct aid in securing this very desirable result. It gives to the life of the Session a certain "flavor" which it would be difficult otherwise to insure. By reporting and emphasizing the more informal phases and events of student life, it stimulates among those attending the Session a feeling of acquaintanceship with one another, and perhaps also a feeling of affection for the University. In short, a student paper published during the short Summer Session does much to make the summer work represent in an effective way some of the desirable qualities of the regular session.

Dope Sheet Staff

When this periodical began a squalling existence several years ago as a portable billboard for announcing the annual Interscholastic, the promoters' minds were occupied chiefly by circus thoughts; consequently the child was named the "Sirkus Siren." Although the Interscholastic Circus did then and does yet make up the principal opera of the paper, the minor instrumentation, particularly the brass and the wind, are not at all absent. Thrilling stories and cartoons, in which the campus drabs and grays are stepped up to high tension purples, are set forth. The reader merely has to open his eyes and look—the Dope Sheet automatically does the rest for him. It is easier and much more satisfying to read than the grade on a theme.

Director Huff appoints the editor and manager who then round up a staff of fifteen or twenty hungry wits. These are unmuzzled and sieced after all the game in sight, and after some that isn't. Staid personages commonly addressed in titular solemnity are called Fred this and George that, or Crabapple Joe. Editorial hooks are sunk into the past, and the forgotten alike are hauled into the present. Then the future is given the gas treatment, and even the present has to undergo a drum-tight inflation. For like Christmas, Fourth of July, April Fool, and Spring, the Dope Sheet comes but once a year, so that once must be a boiler explosion rather than the modest popping of a wild mustard pod.

The Live Stock Pavilion

The Department of Agriculture completed last winter at the south end of Burrill Avenue, just north of the cemetery, the new Live Stock Pavilion, the primary purpose of which is to accommodate the classes in all branches of live stock judging. This pavilion is the finest and best adapted to its purpose of any similar building at any university. It is constructed entirely of steel, concrete, and terracotta, and has a very large window area, giving unusual lighting capacity. The interior has a large tan-bark ring 65 feet wide and 219 feet long, with a ring side seating capacity of two thousand people. The ring can be divided at will into three sections, and each used for classes. The total cost of the building was about $120,000. In addition to the ring the building contains class rooms, offices, locker and storage rooms. It is hoped in the future to be able to hold a live stock show in the Pavilion each winter, as it is admirably suited to such a purpose. The building will also be of great assistance in accommodating the classes and meetings of the agricultural short courses given by the university.

The Mask and Bauble Club is the only student organization at the University of Illinois whose sole purpose is the fostering of the legitimate drama. For many years, the society struggled in vain to obtain sufficient prestige to make possible the representation of modern plays upon a professional scale, but not until recently has it been able to establish itself as the patron of dramatics and an honorary organization worthy of recognition among the best intercollegiate institutions. At the present time the club is undoubtedly superior to any similar society in the west and equal to the best known clubs in the East.

The main factors in the success of Mask and Bauble during the past three or four years have been the absolute fairness with which talent and faithfulness have been recognized by membership; the excellent choice of plays, including such popular compositions as "The County Chairman," "The Servant in the House," "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," and "The Gentleman from Mississippi," the willingness to risk financial ruin by producing three plays upon a professional basis; the unusually efficient coaching; the abundance of talent among the students; the support of other University organizations, and perhaps most important of all, the ability and efficiency of the men who have filled the executive offices.

The club is looking forward to a campus theater in the near future and adequate club and trophy rooms. At all events, there seems no reason to doubt the permanency of the high status now occupied by the society as an honorary dramatic institution and its popularity among the students at large.

The Illinois Union Dramatic Club was founded in the Spring of 1911 by the cast, chorus and managerial staff of the "Maid of the Moon," the first musical comedy ever given at the University of Illinois. The Illinois Union assumes all financial responsibility of the productions of the Dramatic Club. The latter in turn gives the Illinois Union all the receipts of its productions.

The growth of interest taken in the productions of the musical comedies staged by the Illinois Union Dramatic Club is wonderful. Although it has been in existence but three years, it has become one of the important institutions of the college life.

During its short existence the club has staged three productions, namely, "The Maid of the Moon" in 1911, "The Dad of the Undergrad" in 1912 and "The Prodigal Prince" in 1913.

The Prodigal Prince

On April eleventh and twelfth, 1913, the Illinois Union Dramatic Club presented its third operetta, "The Prodigal Prince." The book and lyrics were written by H. W. Weis and L. W. Ramsey, and the music was composed by F. W. Mohlman. The operetta was staged under the direction of McElroy Johnston and managed by Leo Apgar. "The Prodigal Prince" was exceptionally well drilled and will without doubt go down in the annals of dramatic history of the University of Illinois as one of the most successful and artistic operettas ever produced.

The Passing of the Third Floor Back

The production of Jerome K. Jerome's famous play, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," as a feature of the commencement program for 1913, was not only noteworthy for its artistic excellence, but also marked the beginning of a new epoch in the history of dramatics at Illinois. Just as "The County Chairman," produced earlier in the year, had set new standards for comedy, so "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," set a standard for plays of a more serious nature. Never before has so difficult a play been attempted, but under the direction of Mr. T. H. Guild the cast were so enabled to interpret their parts that the performance compared very favorably to the original production. It would have been almost impossible to have selected a play which offered more opportunity for each member of the cast to achieve recognition, and the interpretation of the various roles, and especially that of The Third Floor Back, was so excellent that no one could have been accused of not making the most of his opportunity.

The Gentleman from Mississippi

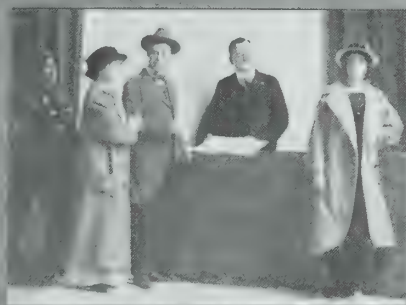

Mask and Bauble presented its annual Fall comedy November fifteenth, 1913. The play presented at this time was, "The Gentleman from Mississippi." The tryouts for this comedy were far larger than any ever held in the University for any dramatic offering previously produced, the result was that F. Kitson Cowley under whose direction the production was staged, had ample material from which to pick an excellent cast.

The play was produced on the night after the Illinois versus Minnesota football game and one of the features of the evening was the presence of the Illinois' football team in the boxes; and the Illinois yells and songs.

The Adelphic and Illiola Literary Societies presented their annual production in Morrow Hall on the 25th and 26th of April, 1913. "A Curious Mishap" a comedy in three acts, from the Italian, by Carle Goldoni, was presented. The production set a new standard for the literary societies, along dramatic lines. A number of the cast had taken part in previous University dramatic productions, this fact aided greatly in the staging. F. Kitson Cowley, under whose direction the play was staged, deserved a great deal of credit for the admirable manner in which the cast was trained.

London Assurance

The Players' Club presented "London Assurance," a comedy in five acts by Don L. Boucicault and John Brougham, in Morrow Hall on the sixteenth and seventeenth of January, 1914. The play was written in 1840 and was first produced the following year in London and New York. It is an old English comedy of manners typical of that period. The artistic presentation and finish which is always to be found in a players' club production was ever present in "London Assurance." The production was staged under the direction of F. K. W. Drury and F. Kitson Cowley.

The Bear in Oratory and Debate

The school year opened with greater prospects for Illinois victories in forensic work than ever before. The Board of Oratory and Debate had been organized the previous year by a body of Varsity debaters, for the advancement of debating and oratory among the students. They started with the record of Illinois an unbroken series of defeats and by sheer hard work have obtained recognition from the students of the value of public speaking. The result has justified their hopes, for more material of Varsity calibre has been available this year than ever before. We were fortunate in having secured Mr. Woolbert as the head of the Public Speaking Department. He is a man of great ability and has been invaluable in assisting Illinois representatives. A great deal of the credit for this year's success is due him and it is hoped that he will make Illinois his permanent residence.

In the fall debates with Iowa and Wisconsin we were unfortunate, losing each contest. The former was a two to one decision, showing the closeness of the contest, while in the latter we were surprised with an interpretation of the question that rendered it a self-evident proposition. Nothing but praise can be given for the work of these teams and they deserved a greater reward. In the spring our list of defeats was broken by victories over both Indiana and Ohio. These two contests were cleanly fought and were won by a great margin. The results of all the contests have fully justified a faith in Illinois ability and should certainly aid the advancement of debating and oratory.

The literary societies have pursued their usually even course, and the competition for the banner, which is awarded annually to the society having the greatest number of University representatives, was close; Ionian winning by a small margin and thus obtaining the banner for three out of the four years that it has been awarded.

In declamation, the unbroken succession of victories by Illiola was broken by Athenian in the person of Miss Lillian Guffin, who delivered "The Lost Word."

Illinois will be represented in the State Peace Contest by Mr. E. L. Hasker. His oration is one that shows great thought and hard work, and this in conjunction with his ability as a speaker argues well for a good record in this contest. In the Northern Oratorical League our representatives will be Mr. A. V. Essington, a veteran debater and a man experienced in dramatic work. Illinois can be proud of both representatives for they are men of unusual ability and should bring honor to the school.

The year has been a distinct success, due to the unremitting efforts of the Public Speaking Staff, Mr. Woolbert and Mr. Sarrett, and the calibre of our contestants. This and the continued existence of student interest as evidenced by the Board of Oratory and Debate promise well for the future of debating and oratory at Illinois.

The Military Band

The Military Band is now in the twenty-fourth year of its existence. Of its early growth and organization, little is known, other than that [it was under student leadership and its number varied from fifteen to twenty-five men. In 1906 Mr. Albert Austin Harding, then completing his Senior year in college, took charge of the band, and the development of this organization to its present high standard of excellence is due to his ceaseless and untiring efforts. Mr. Harding is a remarkably talented and able director. He is a master of all band instruments, and can take the place of any one of the sixty-five men in the band. He possesses a personality which not only commands the admiration and respect of his men, but which, at the same time, wins their sincerest affection.

At the time Mr. Harding assumed leadership of the band it consisted of thirty men; today, the total enrollment of the first and second bands, and of the drum corp totals over one hundred and sixty. Its standards are the very highest, for it plays the same class of programs and concerts as does Sousa, Innis, Pryor, and other noted bands. In this way it offers the student-musician an opportunity both to play and to become familiar with a large amount of very best class of music.

The Military Band enrollment is divided among three organizations. The first band, consisting of sixty-five members for indoor concert work, and, augmented with the second division, aggregates one hundred men for outdoor occasions, such as athletic games, Military and University ceremonies. The first band makes a specialty of concert work. The second band usually consists of fifty or more players, and is considered by many to compare favorably with the first bands of other universities. The third organization, the trumpet and drum corps, consists of about forty members, who augment the first and second bands on outdoor occasions.

The University Band Library is one of the largest band libraries in the country, containing upwards of two thousand selections. The University also owns an exceptionally fine set of instruments, the value of which exceeds six thousand dollars.

It is planned for the future to build up a short course for band-masters, in order that the leaders of the various bands throughout the state may come to the University and learn the methods used in the organization and direction of the University Band.

Each year the first band, aside from offering a great number of concerts to the University community, makes a tour of the larger cities of the State. The impressions made on such tours have always been very favorable, and in this way the band has done much to enhance the reputation of the University which it represented.

Military

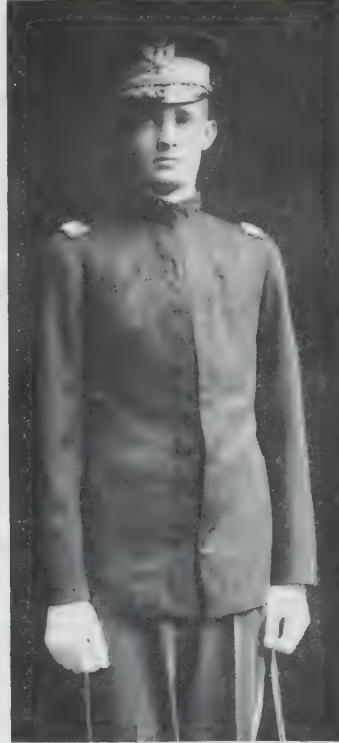

In October, 1913, Lieutenant Colonel Morse, our commandant, was called away by the War Department to resume his active duties in the service with the twenty-third infantry. His three years detail at Illinois was one of great success, and under his personal direction the military department reached the high position, which it now holds. Colonel Morse in his sincere, unassuming, and diplomatic manner acquired the respect of everyone, and accomplished more for the military department than any other commandant. The university suffered a great loss when he left, for all realized that in him we had a loyal and true-hearted Illini. We wish him the best of success in his future work, and can congratulate him even now upon having one of the best regiments of the United States under his command.

We extend to our new commandant, Major F. D. Webster, of the twentieth infantry, a very hearty and cordial welcome. We have in Major Webster a genuine army officer, one with plenty of life, determination, and ability. He has proved himself equal to the responsibilities here, and is accomplishing many things. Under his administration the University of Illinois Rifle Club of 150 members has been formed. We are now represented in the National Rifle Association matches by a rifle team, and Illinois has come out with a perfect score in Class C this year. Major Webster is in charge of the Summer Training Camp for college men at Ludington, Michigan, and expects to give a thousand college men an outing there.

COLONEL C. H. WESTCOTT

Three days of the college year at Illinois are devoted entirely to military. Inspection day was held on April 29, 1913. Captain Robinson made a complete inspection of the regiment, and rendered a very favorable report to the government. May 19th was devoted to competitive, and the best drilled and most efficient units of the regiment were awarded prizes for their skill in military tactics. Military Day on May 30th closed the military year. In the morning a review of the regiment by President James was followed by the awarding of medals to competitive winners. With the help of fifty co-eds the medals were pinned on the cadets. In the afternoon the regiment marched out to the cemetery where appropriate ceremonies were held. The day was closed by a graduation parade on Illinois Field, at which time the senior officers received their commissions, and the regiment was given formally to the command of the junior officers.

We can well be proud of our cadet regiment, the largest in the United States, with an enrollment of 1950 men, including a band of 110 men. Next year with our new armory completed, even greater results in military training can be expected.

Competitive Day

One of the most important events of the military year is the annual competitive drill, which is held during the latter part of May. At this time the University Gold Medal is presented to the best drilled sophomore, the Hazelton Prize Medal to the best drilled freshman, and University bronze medals are awarded to the most efficient companies of infantry, and detachments of the battery and signal corps.

At the competitive held on May 19th, 1913, Lieut. E. S. Pike, and Lieut. Philip Mowry of the 15th Cavalry, were sent down to act as judges. In the morning the University Medal was won by H. W. Hollard, and the Hazelton Prize was awarded to W. R. Fisher. The sophomore competitive took place on south campus, and was uniquely closed by an attack. When the smoke blew over the judges pronounced Co. D, First Battalion, under the command of Captain P. E. Buck, the winner.

The contest between the twelve freshman companies was held in the afternoon. Co. D., Second Battalion with Captain M. G. Severinghaus commanding, took the laurels. The freshman battalion competitive was won by the Third Battalion under the command of Major J. F. Brown. The winning rifle team was that of Co. A, First Battalion.

The 1913 Team

The 1913 team did well. The squad could not be regarded as one of championship possibilities of even the remotest kind. Only the hardest kind of work, long hours and heroic playing kept the team from suffering defeats except by two teams that had openly heralded the fact that their ante-season outlook, based on veteran material, was the best in years.

A marked characteristic of the team, with the exception of the questionable and flunky play of Missouri's, was its ability to score first or, as in the Purdue game, to threaten to score first. Each game was featured by good playing and costly spiritless relaxations. Strategical and mechanical mistakes were made which in the two most important games marked the turning point toward defeat after a winning start.

The qualities which go to make a winning team are undeveloped in green men. If the physical endurance is low the first to go will be the power of sustained attention and without that muscular coordination will be useless as intelligent direction and speed of action will be impaired.

While the 1913 team had several fast men the average speed of the team was very low. With few exceptions the men were slow starters. While their intentions were courageous they could not execute them fast enough to be effective. The line material was scant and that coupled with the absence of two or more back-field men of versatile abilities left the offense easily diagnosed. This last fact made us look outclassed at times. The boys were clean and game and as a result the season's work was featured by the splendid comeback for the Purdue game and the strong finish in the Minnesota contest after the bad football of the last eighteen minutes on Marshall field.

The future! Next year! While I do not like to use "ifs" in the connection with the past, the word "if" cannot be side-stepped, stiff-armed, or bowled over when peering into the football future. If the present material, both veteran and freshman, can maintain their scholastic standing Illinois should have a better team. But with that expected increase in the football efficiency the team faces the stiffest schedule in the history of Illinois. It will take a relentless, untiring squad with football drive and strategy to step through that schedule successfully. Determination is essential, but that in itself will not be enough. It must be reenforced by intelligent training and arduous preparation. Candidates must engage in some form of athletics throughout the year. A little work, let us say three short periods a week, with football as the goal, will help make them better men and yet this exercise can be carried on with advantage to their studies.

As a parting remark to the 1913 squad and particularly to its captain and senior members, I want to say that their examples of persistent and courageous efforts, in the face of distracting odds, will certainly contribute towards future success.

1915 Football Review

It was with a spirit of patient anxiety that our new coach, Zuppke, awaited the response to his call for early football practice last fall. Some men came from the foundry, some from the farm, others from the Northern Woods, all were in splendid physical condition. The sky was clear and a smile lighted the face of our earnest little coach, for a week before registration men in football togs were seen on Illinois Field, kicking, passing, and falling on the ball.

Finally the day set as the formal opening of the Conference football season came around. The smile had changed to a frown and a deep heavy gloom, like a black cloud hung upon the horizon of the 1913 football season. The small number of men included but few veterans of the year before; the freshman team offered about the same number. In all barely two teams could be formed. True, Artie Hall had installed the never-say-quit spirit—the spirit of courage and dauntlessness, but a new coach was in charge with a new style of football. The task was a tremendous one. Rowe, Wagner, Schobinger, Rue, Pogue, Senneff, and Silkman were fighting for backfield positions. In Wilson, Armstrong, Derby and Graves there was material to care for the end positions, but with the loss of Hudelson and Booze, strong linemen of the year before, and that of Hardinger and Madison of the freshman team, Coach Zuppke realized that he must construct a new line between the ends. Chapman of Hall's team and Watson and Lansche of Coach Jones' freshman team, bid fair to plug up three of these holes.

For three weeks the men were put through driving practise and scrimmage with the freshmen. On October 4 a machine appeared on Illinois Field to test its strength against that of Kentucky. The outcome of the game was eagerly watched by the Illini as well as by the coach. In this game the strength of the Illini was not disclosed because the Kentucky team, whose strength lay in running with the ball, resorted to the use of open plays. The fact the Illinois must improve in carrying the ball and in tackling was very evident. The three touchdowns which made the score 21-0 were the result of hard line plugging by Captain Rowe and Wagner and open field running by Pogue.

WAITING FOR SPECIAL TO CHICAGO

In the Missouri game on October 11, the attack was built around Pogue at quarter-back. The open style of play was adopted because the Missouri ends were weak. This game showed an improvement in tackling, but the line showed weakness by "being fooled by anything out of the ordinary." Frequent fumbles and penalties marred the play of both teams. No trick plays and comparatively few open formations were used. Captain Rowe distinguished himself as a punter and a place-kicker. When the whistle sounded the score stood 24-7 in favor of Illinois.

The game with Northwestern on October 18 started the Conference season at Illinois. In this game the defense proved strong, but the line was weak on spread plays. Two minutes after Illinois kicked off Watson blocked a punt and Chapman fell on the ball for the first touchdown. This seemed to dishearten the Methodists and after that the Illini tore thru Northwestern's line and circled the ends for long gains. The final score was 37-0.

On Saturday, October 25, the team was accompanied to Indianapolis by one thousand rooters and the 100-piece band. It was in this game that the team was forced to uncork some of its trick plays and open formations. The team began to work like a machine. Both Rowe and Schobinger punctured the Indiana line as though it were made of paper and Pogue made many sensational open field runs. The score, 10-0 does not indicate the number of opportunities to score that the Illini lost. Probably this was the most costly game of the season, for with the Chicago game but a week ahead the three back field men, Rowe, Schobinger, and Rue, received injuries from which they did not recover before the close of the season.

On November 1 Illinois lost the Chicago game, in the second half, by the score of 28-7. Illinois' lone touch-down was made by Pogue, the plucky little quarterback, who caught a punt during the first two minutes of play and ran sixty-five yards through the entire Chicago team. The crippled Illinois team fought to the last ditch. Three times the Maroons were held within the ten yard line. In the third quarter the difference in the size of the two teams and the superior natural speed and experience of the Maroons began to assert themselves. The turning point came in the third quarter when Illinois failed to punt when in the shadows of the Maroon goal posts. Soon after this Pogue was injured and removed from the game. From then on until the final whistle sounded, the battered Illinois line was unable to withstand the terrific onslaught of the Maroons.

Brim full of confidence, the Purdue team came to Urbana to play for the Home-Coming crowd. During the rest of two weeks the Illini had improved wonderfully and with Wagner at quarter-back to replace the injured Pogue, the team was in condition for a great contest. The miserable weather conditions and the wet field favored the heavy visitors and their records far outshone those of the Illinois team. Frequent fumbles, especially on the part of the visitors, marred the contest. Illinois played a great game and took the advantage of Purdue's fumbles at all times. The score 0-0, leaves the supremacy as unsettled as it was after the tie 9-9 the year before.

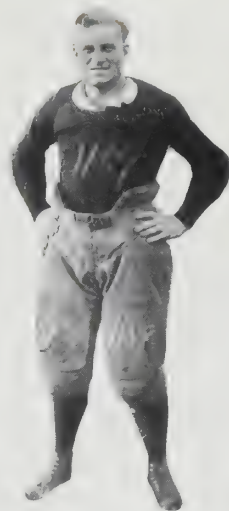

And now we come to the Minnesota game, the last game of the season, the game of all of which we are proud. Illinois showed a comeback seldom seen in a team which has been eliminated from the race for the championship. For this reason the game, which was won by Minnesota by the score of 19-9, to Illinois really was a victory in defeat. Captain Rowe started the scoring early in the first quarter with a place kick. The surprise stirred the spirits of the Gophers. With a series of brilliantly executed passes to Solon, whose ability to catch forward passes was nothing short of miraculous, the Gophers roamed down the field. By the middle of the last quarter they had scored three touchdowns. Here the Illini, in possession of the ball threw the game wide open. Long passes flipped to the right and to the left were successful. The amazed Gophers were swept off their feet. A touchdown was scored. After the kick-off the same tactics were adopted and the Illini marched down the field. With the ball within striking distance of the goal, the whistle sounded, announcing that the old rivals were supreme. In this their last game on Illinois field, Captain Rowe and Wilson played brilliant football. Their work was a fitting climax to their football careers.

While not a success in every way the football year does honor to our coaches, Zuppke and Lindgren, and to our team. With a vast amount of green material to work in as veterans and struggling against a series of injuries the team made an enviable record, one which at the beginning of the season seemed impossible. Under the leadership of Captain Chapman and Coach Zuppke, it is the fervent belief of Illinois men that the football team next year will occupy the coveted position of Conference Champions.

F. C. RICHEY.

CAPTAIN ENOS MARION ROWE.

Probably as husky a bunch of "grit" as ever wore the Orange and Blue. Powerful and effective as a line plunger, and many an opponent has realized that "Enos" could hit the line hard. In his three years as an Illini warrior, he has played end, halfback, and full-back while his long punts have staved off many a defeat. We regret that Captain Rowe will graduate this year, and we wish to congratulate him, on the showing made by the team this year under his leadership.

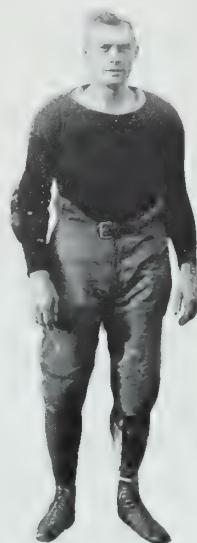

RALPH CHAPMAN

Chapman is beyond a doubt as good a lineman as Illinois has seen for some time. Although shifted from his center position to tackle, he played at that position, like a veteran, and as a result of his good work was elected captain of the 1914 eleven. "Slooeey" is not a spectacular player, but his consistency has made him the player that he is, and we feel confident that the "follow the leader" spirit, will bring the championship to Illinois next year.

ORLIE RUE

Orlie is not a spectacular player; but he is a steady player. He is always ready to carry the ball, and is as shifty a half-back as Illinois has seen in some time. Rue is not only fast, but he is one of these stocky, "never say die" fellows. This was his second year on the team, his lack of experience, keeping him out of the lime light last year. Rue is a hard and sure tackler, as well as a hard man to tackle in the open field. Should Rue improve next season as he did this year, his services will be indispensable to the Illini.

NORMAN KENNETH WILSON

Wilson has played his last football game as an Illini, as he graduates this year. That "Norm" was good, is needless to say; he was more than good; being a star and recognized as such by football critics. Fleet of foot and always under punts, his favorite stunt being to down opponents in their tracks. He has seen two years of varsity football, and the loss at his end position will be keenly felt, not only by his team-mates, but by all loyal Illini.

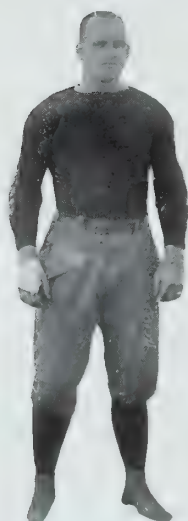

SYLVESTER RANDALL DERBY

In Derby we have a type of player that would be an asset to any team. He is tall, rangy, aggressive, and fast. This was his second year on the team, and by sticking to it, he has showed us that he is a player of no mean ability, and when called upon can deliver the goods. His spectacular work in the Purdue game deserves special mention, and next year should find "Derb" a strong contender for a regular berth at end.

THERON BUSHNELL FULLERTON

Fullerton is another one of these fellows, who by constant hammering, finally won out. He was on the job early in the season, and showed "Zup" that he was not slow at football, but it was not until late in the season, that "Fully" was given the chance to distinguish himself. As a lineman he proved to be as good as the best. The conference ruling, however, will keep Fullerton out of the Illinois line-up next year, as he played two seasons of college football before coming to Illinois.

PERRY HENRY GRAVES

Perry was the sensation of the 1916 Freshman Varsity team, and great things were expected of the little end, as a varsity man. He lived up to expectations. There was not a man in the conference that he could not get by. He was always under punts, a sure tackler and his performances at end are deserving of commendation. He still has one year to play, and we feel sure that the stocky end will be a shining light in Illinois football history.

HAROLD AUSTIN POGUE

Pogue was the 1913 find. In 1912 he was picked as all-star quarterback, and was a high bidder for the same position on the all-conference team, but Fortune was against him. His last stellar performance was his touchdown against Chicago, after running through Stagg's entire team. An injury shortly afterward kept the plucky sophomore out of the game for the rest of the season, but we hope to see the "speed king" back on the gridiron next fall.

EUGENE SHOBINGER

One of the "Flying Squadron." "Gene" is the steadiest ground gainer in the Illini backfield. He seems to be made up of the right amount of ingredients that go towards making a football man. He always hits the line hard, and time after time the big halfback has carried the oval for gains, where others had failed. On defense he is used to back up the line, and there also his speed, endurance and ability to size up plays quickly, have made his services indispensable. Two years of training have made "Shobe" a great player, and he will certainly be called upon to help Illinois win next season.

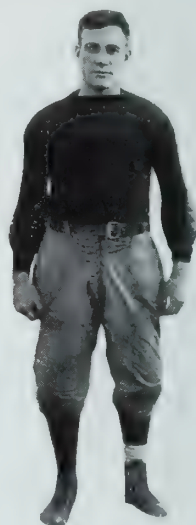

ARTHUR ROBERT SIEBENS

Siebens is a shining example of what can be accomplished by a man, who thinks he might have a show. It took "Art" two years to think, and then he acted. It was some act too, for although a new man at the game he made good. His size and speed made him one of the principal main stays of the Illinois line. He was there at all times with the fight that helped the team to make the showing that it did this year, and we hope that his experience this year, will enable him to make an even better showing next year.

GEORGE FREEMAN SENNEFF

"Fast and Furious" is his slogan, and after two years of varsity experience, he has demonstrated that he is both. Always on the alert, aggressive, and ready to fight. A hard and sure tackler, quick to size up plays, and a hard man to get past. His specialty is picking holes in the opposing line, and he usually finds one. "Giggs" has one more year, and we hope to see more of the little halfback next fall.

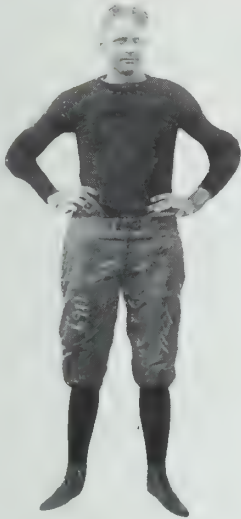

JOHN MEAD SILKMAN

At the start of the season "Silk" did not show the form and ability as a quarterback that marked him as a top notcher during the season of 1912, and it was not until the latter part of the season that he regained his form. Then he showed us by his spectacular work in the Minnesota game, that he could come back, and we still believe that "Johnnie" is one of the best exponents of the forward pass in the west.

ALEXANDER WAGNER

"Dutch" started the season in his old position in the backfield. But he showed so much speed and endurance at that position, that when Zuppke needed a man to fill Pogue's shoes, he gave "Dutch" a trial. "Dutch" took to the position, like a duck to water, and while there were times when inexperience was a hindrance, he kept plugging away until he had mastered the handicap. "Wag" is quick to recover fumbles, full of grit, fast and heady, and he has one more year of varsity football.

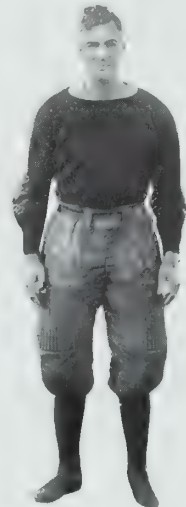

ORAL EDWARD LANSCHÉ

In Lansche, Illinois has a lineman of ability. "Olie" is big and powerful. He was drafted from the Freshman varsity eleven of last year, and with his ability and 200 pounds of bone and muscle has been a necessary fixture in the line. Injuries to his side at the beginning of the season kept Lansche from proving his real worth to the Illini, but he still has two years of football ahead of him, and the prophets predict wonders from the big fellow before he graduates.

EUGENE FRANCIS PRUITT

Pruitt was another surprise of the 1913 season. Not an exceptionally large man, but fast, heady, and a hard man to handle. Not a sensation, but "Speed" was never to be found on the outside of the scrimmage. He was usually on the bottom and it was his ability to get in and fight hard, that gave him his position. He still has two years to play, and his natural ability, coupled with a little more Zuppke, should make a great player out of him.

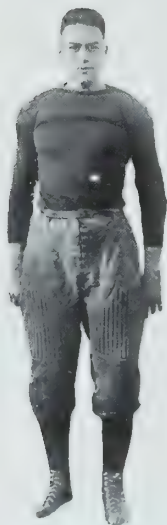

JAMES O. TUPPER

Few of those in the University have ever heard of Jimmie Tupper before this year, but records show that back in 1908 a fellow by the name of Tupper was a lineman on the Freshman varsity team. He was a star then, and years have not changed his caliber. He could not stay away from the gridiron, and when the season opened, "Jim" was out in uniform. He looked good to "Zup" and proved to be just as good as he looked. Tupper "came back," and we hope he will come back for his remaining two years of varsity football.

JOHN WESLEY WATSON

"Jack" is another of last year's Freshmen that made good. He not only made good, but he remained that way, and at the end of the season was one of the hardest fighters in the line. Nobody made a gain through center, because Watson would not let them through. In fact, he seemed everywhere at once. Breaking through the line, smashing interference, and spoiling plays, is a hobby of "Watty's," and in the two remaining years the big sophomore is sure to reveal more surprises to the Illini rooters.

LENNOX FRANCOIS ARMSTRONG

"Army" is a true Zuppkeite. He played under Zuppke in "prep" school, and when "Zup" called for candidates last spring, the big fellow was a candidate for an end position. He made good from the start and was a permanent fixture at left end, until injuries forced him to the bench. A hard man to spill on defence, fast on offence, heady, and full of fight. He still has one year as a wearer of the Orange and Blue, and should make a tower of strength for the team of next year.

Baseball Review, 1913

If the varsity baseball team had donated all the 1913 season games to her opponents in advance, many of the so-called "Baseball Critics" would not have been surprised. Prospects for a winning nine were far from bright to the Illinois Fans who had been accustomed to cheer championship teams year after year. Captain Watts with the veterans, Fletcher, Prindiville, Phelps, Rowe and Thomas were on hand to uphold the honors for the Illini, but nevertheless Coach Huff, the mentor of 1000⁰⁰ baseball teams, knew that many holes must be patched up before the opening of the Conference schedule.

The call for candidates brought out the usual number of aspirants, but a dearth of real baseball material was more or less evident. Trainer "Wee Willie" McGill employed his "Big League" experience specializing on the twirlers and with the veterans, Captain Watts, Prindiville and Thomas heading the list, and the new recruits, Hess and Larson, the Illini seemed to have a winning bunch of slab artists. A set of capable infielders and reliable batters caused Coach "G" no little anxiety although the fans knew that the most renowned Baseball Teacher would spring a surprise in these departments of the team.

What men will make the "Southern Trip" was the prevailing query. Coach Huff was in the dark as to the ability of the recruits until the several out-door practices gave him a chance to size up the candidates before the team left for the invasion of "Dixie." The Easter vacation tour was far from disastrous as was predicted by many observers. The first real out-door game for the Illini was dropped to the

RED SOX AT UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

University of Mississippi by a 3 to 1 score. Although in mid-season form, the following day, Mississippi A. & M. College was downed with fast fielding and several three baggers from Nevin's mighty stick. The second game of the Starkville series ended with a 7 to 7 tie, notwithstanding the spectacular work of Cogdall, the midget second sacker for Illinois. After defeating the University of Alabama in a snappy close game by the score of 2 to 1 the team hailed northward again, in rather hopeful and confident spirits.

The much heralded Boston Red Sox invaded the Illinois camp shortly after the trip in the "Sunny South." Coach Huff's aggregation began to display considerable improvement and were entertaining the ambition to embarrass Jake Stahl's Champs before their many Illini admirers. "Smoky" Wood, by fanning twelve of the brave varsity batters in succession, lead the Red Sox to a 10 to 0 victory, in which "Jake" rapped three singles as in the "Days of Yore." Although Larson's remarkable twirling allowed the Champs but 6 safe bingles the better batting of the Illini could not save them from a second defeat of 2 to 0, at the hands of Jake's mighty warriors.

The Varsity opened the Conference schedule on Illinois Field with a victory of 9 to 5 over the Hoosier nine in a weird and ragged game. "Curly" Larson pitched fine ball but was poorly supported at times. Phelps triple with three men on bases clinched the game for Illinois. The Orange and Blue won their second conference game from Iowa, 6 to 1. The Varsity showed "Old time Illinois style" and the Hawkeyes were at the complete mercy of Thomas' masterful pitching.

"G" HUFF AND JAKE STAHL

The next victory for the Illini came by a 5 to 3 score over the "Razorbacks." East fielding by "G's" pupils and the excellent twirling of Hess were too much for the Arkansas team. In this game Illinois distinguished herself by making a fast triple play, the first ever seen on the local diamond.

Northwestern was the next invader of the Illinois camp and in a hard fought tussle carried away a 4 to 3 victory for the first time in twelve years. After downing Purdue at Lafayette in a swat-fest 9 to 1 in which Captain Watts pitched stellar ball, the Orange and Blue secured revenge on the Purple a week later by trouncing them by the score of 5 to 2.

The trip to Iowa City added another conquest for the Illinois aggregation. In a tight game, which was rescued by Captain Watts in the tenth inning, the Hawkeyes were defeated 4 to 3. Phelps' stick work featured for the Varsity.

The next baseball news of interest to the Illini Fans was the northern journey to Minneapolis. In a lop-sided game the Sucker Team walloped Minneapolis to the tune of 12 to 3. Heavy hitting and fast base running were responsible for the slaughter. The Varsity was charitable however with her Conference Opponents to drop the second game in the "Northland" to Wisconsin by an 8 to 4 count.

After the defeat by the Badgers, the Orange and Blue nine retaliated by trampling the Madison tribe 9 to 0 before the usually large Interscholastic crowd. Captain Watts was at the helm for the Illinois ball machine which exhibited superb playing and hit like veterans. Coach Huff's proteges presented the Maroons with the second Interscholastic game only after many thrills. Notwithstanding the pair of home runs by the reliable Fletcher, the veteran Illini backstop, the varsity could not snatch a victory from their old-time rivals.

The five seniors Captain Watts, Fletcher, Prindiville, Nevins and Kay ended their baseball careers on Illinois Field by the defeat of Purdue in a speedy contest. Although "G" worked three Illinois pitchers the Boiler-makers were at no time dangerous and the varsity annexed their last victory of the season by the safe margin of 6 to 3.

In the final game for the Illini, Baumgartner, the Chicago artist, proved the victor for the Maroon team. Captain Watts with the typical Illinois spirit and clever twirling lead his team into the "Battle Royal." After a thrilling twelve-inning contest, replete with spectacular situations, Chicago triumphed 2 to 1, thus clinching the Conference Flag. Any baseball fan will admit that it was not a disgrace to lose such a battle. Thus closed the 1913 baseball season with all loyal Illini as proud as ever of Coach Huff's men who struggled consistently in true sportsmanlike spirit to bring honor to their Alma Mater.

CAPTAIN CLAUDE HARRISON WATTS

"Snorky" as he is better known to his teammates, played his last season of Illini baseball. As a captain he was good; he knew the game much better than most of his men, and played it every minute with all his heart and soul to win. He was undoubtedly one of the best twirlers in the Conference. It was not due to his pitching that Chicago won the last game of the season by a score of two to one, but to the poor hitting of his tribe. Time and again he succeeded in cutting off the Maroons only to see his own men fall before a pitcher who was on the verge of going to pieces. "Snorky" will always be remembered by his teammates as a true sportsman.

JOHN CARNE PHELPS

"Butts" Phelps is our captain for next year and we are all looking once more for a real old Illinois baseball season. Judging from the reports of the games, he did not play any better than he did the first season, but those who were on the bleachers knew that he was playing the game with more head-work. He was stealing bases oftener and with better results; his slides were more perfectly executed; now and then one could see him get away with a placed hit. If he begins the season next year with the same desire to improve his playing, he should have no difficulty in leading his team to victory.

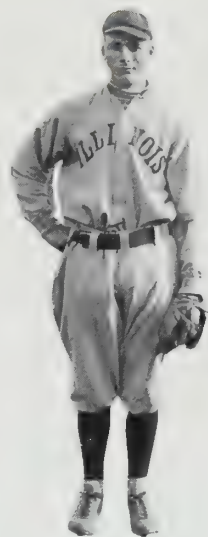

CHARLES HARRISON FLETCHER

"Judge" Fletcher. What Illinois man who is interested in athletics did not know, and what is more, like the Judge? He was a fighter and played the game to the limit. He was never beaten until the last out was made and even then he always felt sure that we could beat them if we were to play them again. A truer sportsman never walked on Illinois Field. While playing the Mississippi A. and M. on the Easter trip, the umpire left for his decision a long drive which fell close to the foul line, and he declared it fair which cost Illinois a losing score, but not a victory. We all hope that when the Judge does have to set on the bench it will be because he knows the game.

ARTHUR SEYMOUR NEVINS

"Art" Nevins was the find of the 1913 squad. For two years he had plugged along as a scrub and was even dropped from these squads before the seasons were over. But last season he climbed into his berth at third before the team went south and he remained there the rest of the year. His fielding at times was a sensation, and many times has he stepped to the plate when a hit was needed and hopped on a live one for a couple of bases. His arm was good and often it cut off the batter at first when the umpire was on the point of making favorable decision. The Illini fans all regret that "Art" did not have the opportunity to make good before his last season.

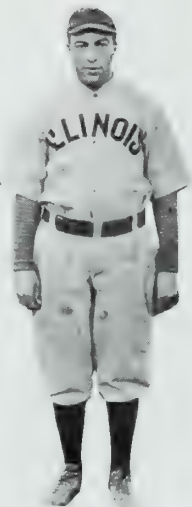

FRANCIS JOSEPH PRINDEVILLE

"Sod" Prindeville played his last game of ball for Illinois this season, and if there was ever a man who wanted to do one thing and had to do the other it was he. "Sod" came to college as a pitcher and it was no idle ambition, for he knew how to pitch, but the difficulty came with his arm which would not respond to his efforts. Along about the fourth or fifth inning he would have to retire from the pitcher's box to first base. Anyone can see how disappointing this must have been to him and how it must have detracted his interest from the game thus preventing him from doing himself justice.

CHARLES KAY

Whoever thought that a little fat boy like Charlie Kay could play Varsity ball, but he did and he sometimes made a very snappy game of it. He was a worker from the start, and if every man tried as hard as Charlie did, there certainly would be a well organized club on Illinois Field. It was too bad that he did not get a chance to show his stuff before his senior year because with a little experience he would be a much better ball player. An actual game made him a trifle nervous and prevented him from playing his best.

LAMBERT, L. LARSON

"Lottie" Larson, as the boys called him, was a drafted pitcher from the 1914 class team. All spring he shadowed "Wee Willie" following out each and every instruction earnestly. Then came his opportunity. It was on the southern trip in a game with Alabama and he made good; his berth on the Varsity was secure. In the series with the Boston Americans when he held them to two runs and a few scattered hits, he proved that he was a comer and even though his success seemed to stop with those two games, the Illini tribe was not discouraged because they felt that with a season's experience he will be a great help to this year's Varsity. We are all looking for big things from "Lottie" in his Senior year.

EARL RAY SUTER

Suter took his first fling at Varsity baseball this season. He came from the sophomore team of last spring where he gathered together all the honors of that league, and is a fine example of the old saying that it is never too late to make good. He is fast on his feet, and had he not been handicapped with two sprained ankles which would not get well, he would have made many more fans sit up and take notice. At times he played a very snappy game and as a hitter he was among the best, his little short quick jabs putting the ball just outside of the fielder's reach. Suter has one more year to play and we are all looking for big things from him.

ROBERT ELLSWORTH THOMAS

"String" Thomas, as he is known throughout the campus, is a second year pitcher. His strong point seems to be in pulling games out of the fire after some other pitcher has been knocked out of the box. But when he had to pitch a whole game he did not have so much success. Still "String" showed a marked improvement over his first year's work which we all remember as being good, and we are looking for him to play his stellar role on the 1914 squad.

HARRY FRANK COGDALL

"Slip" is Harry's official title and he fills the bill admirably; for he is without doubt one of the smallest men that has ever worn an Illini base ball suit. But we all know that size does not make a great deal of difference with ball playing, and what he lacks in size he makes up in "pep." He never failed to cover his regular territory and often he went even farther. He tried to get everything and sometimes he even fooled himself. It certainly was a hard blow to the team when he was taken down with the appendicitis, and it also cut short a very successful ball season for one individual, but "Slip" has two more years to play; so we are looking for an old time Illinois ball player before he gets out of college.

JOHN MEAD SILKMAN

One man on the 1913 squad was drafted from the Freshman team of the year before and from the foot ball team last fall; Johnny Silkman. His regular position was in the out field, but there were times when it was necessary for him to fill in at second base and short stop; which he did well. His hitting was good and often timely. One time in particular while playing at Iowa City the score was tied at the end of the ninth inning making it necessary for extra inning. "Johnny" came to bat with a man on second and two out. He delivered his little single and the game was over. We are looking for big things from him next season.

IRA RUSH

"Ira" came from the 1915 Freshman team where he played the out field until he met with that severe accident which we thought for a long time had ruined a good ball player, but he recovered and last season he played a good game at short stop. He was probably the most erratic player on the squad, one day playing a good game and the next day he would look poor. As a hitter he was much the same way. But "Ira" has one more year to play and we hope that he will loose that one bad quality by next season and play his best ball.

Review of the 1913-14 Track Season

THE track season began with the one mile relay team, which was composed of Henderson, Hunter, Sanders and Cortis winning that classic at Philadelphia, April 26 in the fast time of 3:22 4-5. Captain Case also accompanied the team and finished second in the 120 yard high hurdles.

The next event was the dual meet with Purdue, at Lafayette, Indiana, May 10, 1913. Illinois won the meet by the overwhelming score of 86 to 31. The high jump and the pole vault were the only first places won by Purdue while Henderson, Hunter and Tapping finished in the order named in the 880 yard run. The results of this meet proved that Coach Gill again had a well balanced track team which must be recognized as strong contenders for the Conference Championship.

On May 16, 1913 the track team mounted one step higher on the Conference ladder by defeating Wisconsin 74 to 52. In this meet, which was held on Illinois Field, Wisconsin, athletes were allowed only four firsts. The following week the team went to Chicago where they defeated Stagg's team by the score of 86½ to 46½. In this meet our opponents were allowed only five firsts. The result of this meet made the Illini's chances for the coming Conference meet almost undefeatable.

May 30 the one and two mile relay teams and Captain Case entered the Missouri Valley Conference meet at St. Louis. Here the one mile relay team lowered the World's Intercollegiate record to 3:19 4-5. The two mile team also won first in this meet and Case placed second in the high and low hurdles. June 7 saw the end of the outdoor season when Illinois easily won the Conference Championship at Madison, Wisconsin, by the score of 47½ to Wisconsin 28 and Chicago 17½.

The cross country team defeated Indiana University in a dual meet and finished second only to Wisconsin in the Annual Conference Cross Country Meet at Columbus, November 22, 1913.

The indoor track season afforded only one dual meet besides the Indoor Conference meet at Patten Gymnasium. The remainder of the schedule was cancelled because of the scarlet fever scare during the latter part of February.

At the Indoor Conference Meet, Illinois won by a margin of ten points. Captain R. L. Sanders won the 440 yard dash for the third consecutive time.

THE SEASON'S TROPHIES

Seniors

RALPH LLOYD SANDERS

Illinois is famous as a school of quarter-milers, and Captain Sanders is one of her greatest products. He was a member of the immortal quartet that holds the world's intercollegiate one-mile relay record. "Kink" at various times in his long career as a runner, has defeated the wonderful Bermond, the marvelous Lindberg, and the mighty Davenport. At the present time he holds the Indoor Conference record in the 440-yard dash of 52: 4-5. He is hoping that he, like "Jack" Case will lead the team to a conference championship.

FRED HENDERSON

"Alabam" Henderson is the second member of the immortal quartet who returned to school this year. Although a half-miler by nationality, he was naturalized into the two furlong sprint by Coach Gill, and, as soon as he familiarized himself with the shorter route, he did close to fifty flat. Henderson has made remarkable strides during the past three years until now he is one of the best middle distance men in the West. Illinois expects great things of him in this, his final year.

RALPH BURKE

Ralph wasn't good enough to make the freshman varsity track team, but in his sophomore year he made them all look up and take notice. He was a slow starter, but possessed a hurricane finish that always made the front when they shot by the tape. Burke has succeeded Thompson as the scholar of the team.

NUEL DINSMORE BELNAP

"Snapper" is known as one of the snappiest and gamest runners on the team. He never is beaten until his opponent crosses the tape, and then he will argue with you until the judges announce the result. Belnap's regular race was the mile, but he could step off the half fast enough to make the Illinois two-mile relay team that won honors at St. Louis.

Seniors

NORMAN KENNETH WILSON

"Norm" was ideally built for the quarter, being tall, rangy and powerful. He was a member of the Illini relay team that journeyed East only to be defeated by a scant margin by the famous Syracuse quartet that had the Olympic champion Reidpath as the last runner. Wilson also, was always good for points in all Illinois dual meets. Injuries suffered on the gridiron have forced Wilson to forego activities on the track squad.

JOHN CARNE PHELPS

"Butts" has the honor of being one of Illinois best sprinters since the days of "Billy" May. Last year he won the 50 yard dash in the Indoor Conference, and later came back at the end of the baseball season with only a few weeks training and won third place in the conference 100-yard dash. Phelps' interest is primarily in baseball, and Coach Gill has been credited with saying that if "Butts" would confine his attention to track, he would easily beat anything in the "Big Nine."

HARLEY MARION BUTT

Harley distinguished himself last June when he won the Conference championship in the discus. He also handles the shot in good style, and this year promises to blossom out as a hammer thrower. Butt is ideally built for the weights, and if he ever starts on the rampage, all conference records in the discus are sure to be shattered.

HAROLD BENJAMIN BOLANDER

"Bo" has the honor of being the smallest man that ever won the Illinois letter. One is forced to wonder where in his small frame he gets all the wind to travel the two and five-mile routes. Although tiny, Bolander is the hardest working man on the track team. In the fall he runs the cross country and in the winter and spring he travels two miles. "Bo" was captain this year of Illinois' most successful cross country team.

HENDERSON

HUNTER

SANDERS

CORTIS

GILL (Coach)

One Mile Relay Championship Team of America

Illinois' immortal quartet Hunter, Sanders, Cortis, Henderson—comprised the greatest aggregation of quarter-milers ever gathered together under the banner of any university. In the three races in which they competed, they mounted up the scale of honors until finally they were acknowledged without a peer in the history of college one mile relay teams.

In the first contest at the Missouri-Athletic Club games in St. Louis, the team experienced little difficulty in defeating the crack Notre Dame quartet which was rated as the best in the West. The work of the team in that contest influenced Coach Gill to send his men to the "Penn" Games in an attempt to win national honors.

The race at Philadelphia narrowed to a contest between teams representing Illinois and Pennsylvania. "Mike" Murphy, the famous Quaker Coach had set his heart on winning this classic, and had as his anchor man, the Olympic champion, Lippincott. But the Illini were not to be denied, and Cortis crossed the tape a full ten yards to the good. The time of 3:22 4-5 was remarkable considering the unfavorable weather conditions. The One Mile Relay Championship of America was the title that the team brought to Illinois.

But greater honor was yet to be obtained. At the Missouri Valley Conference Meet which was held on May 30, the immortal quartet shattered all previous marks, and set a new world's Intercollegiate one Mile Relay Record of 3:19 4-5, or the astounding average of 49 4-5 sec. per man. This was truly a grand climax for a great team.

GILL (Coach) CASNER (Mgr.)
 WRIGHT WRAY MASON BERGOON
 BOLANDER (Captain) BILLMAN FRANKS

Cross Country

Illinois' cross country team nearly emulated the example set by the other team under the tutelage of Coach Gill by almost carrying off the Conference honors in that sport. In her first attempt at cross country competition Illinois only succeeded in landing seventh place, and determined efforts were made by Coach Gill to turn out a better team this year. How well he succeeded history now indicates. The team in the annual Cross Country Conference Meet at Columbus on November 22, finished a close second to Wisconsin, and that, without the services of Billman, one of her best men.

Mason, the speedy Sophomore, covered himself with glory by winning second place. He bids fair to outshine all previous Illini distance runners. Captain Bolander pluckily fought his way to eighth position, just ahead of the Wisconsin captain. Wray and Frank finished seventeenth and eighteenth respectively. Burgoon, 39th and Wright, 41st, completed the Illinois score.

In her first dual cross country meet, Illinois defeated the Indiana University team by the score of 21 to 34. The run was over a hilly, four-mile course. Illinois representatives were Bolander, Mason, Frank, Billman, Burgoon, and Wray.

Review of the Season

THE most successful basketball season in years, if not in Illinois' history, came to an abrupt close during the scarlet fever scare. Not enough can be said about Coach Jones who whipped into shape a team which with but two smiles from Dame Fortune would have won the Big Nine Championship. The Illini lost but three games out of the ten and two of these were lost only by one point. No one player on the team is a star, but it was the superb coaching ability of Ralph Jones that made the five men work like a machine, which completely bewildered its opponents. The game against Chicago, although lost by the "Midgets," easily demonstrated the superb coaching of the Illini.

All of the men who were on the team this year will be back next year and these with the exceptionally strong freshman varsity are bound to do Coach Jones credit.

E. ALLAN WILLIFORD (CAPTAIN)

An aggressive, consistent player was Willie. His consistency last year won for him the captaincy of the team, after the graduation of Bob Hoffman, who had been elected Captain last year. We expect great things of "Willie" next year.

HELMUTH J. KIRCHER

"Kirch" surprised both the rooters and himself by his work this season. "Kirch", like the rest of his team-mates, is not a star, but just a cog in the machine that expects to show them all the way next year. This was "Kirch's" second year on the team.

AVEN DUNER

"Noisy" is the only other veteran on the team and not enough can be said to do justice to "Whitey." It may be said that he was the most consistent man on the team and the way in which he held down the "back guard" job was nothing short of remarkable. The "Swede" will be with us next year and we expect it to be a banner year for him.

FRANK BANE

Bane stepped into Comstock's shoes after the latter had been injured in the first game of the season. What Bane did was wonderful. Opponents could not stop him after he once found out his ability. All that was needed was to call him names and get him "sore." Bane will be ready for action next year.

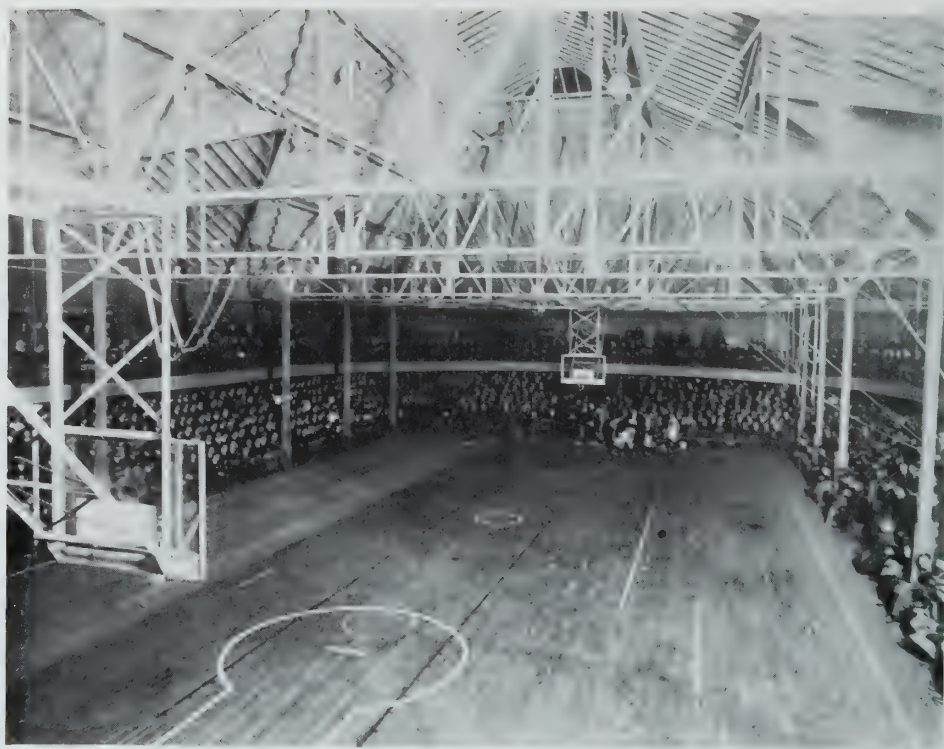

DUDLEY CRANE

"Dud" was the smallest guard in the Conference but his clever work made him one of the most feared men. His basket shooting brought the rooters to their feet time and again. "Dud" is a sophomore and before he gets out of school, Illini fans are bound to see vast improvement in his playing.

Aquatics

THE swimming and polo teams of 1913 maintained Illinois' position as aquatic leader of the conference in a clearly decisive manner. Chicago fell first with a 52 to 6 score against them. The Illini then journeyed to Madison and defeated the Wisconsin team 35 to 23. As a climax, the Orange and Blue water dogs brought home the trophies from the Conference meet at Evanston, beating Northwestern, their nearest competitor, by 13 points. Besides the Conference meets, the Illini met the Missouri Athletic Club, Princeton and Yale, but were not quite as successful with these teams. The M. A. C. team won by slight margins in both polo and swimming. Princeton was defeated in swimming, but not in polo, and Yale was victorious in both branches of aquatics.

The polo team was unable to get but one conference game, and that was with Wisconsin, whom they defeated 4 to 2. The team was at a great handicap because of the fact that two distinct styles of polo were played and the Illini were required to practice both games. International polo was played against Wisconsin, and American Rugby against the outside teams.

The Illini were backed by a new coach, Mr. Edwin J. Manley, formerly of the Missouri Athletic Club, and for seven years a member of that wonderful swimming aggregation. Much of the success of the team was due to Coach Manley, who stimulated great interest in aquatics by his organization of class teams.

The work of "Bill" Vosburgh was a feature of the season, and the Conference lost its greatest swimmer when he graduated. Lichter, or national record fame, did wonderful work for the Illini, and with his team-mate Thompson, made a pair of plungers that could not be beaten. Captain Taber and Captain elect Beaumont were at all times consistent performers, and never failed to bring home the points. The three new members of the team, Griffin, Mottern and Green, completed a relay team that was unequalled in the western colleges.

ATHLETICS

The year 1913 was an uphill struggle for the Gym team. Captain Mann and Buck were the only veterans remaining in school from the championship team of 1912.

With these two men as a nucleus, Coach Hanna worked hard to build up a representative squad. New material was scarce and every man who came out was welcomed gladly. Captain Mann instilled a fighting spirit in the new men which helped overcome some of the disadvantages of their inexperience.

A meet was held with Chicago in March, on the local floor in which Illini came out second best

The results of the Conference were:

Wisconsin	774.35	Illinois	206.12
Chicago	737.25	Nebraska	68.25

Wrestling

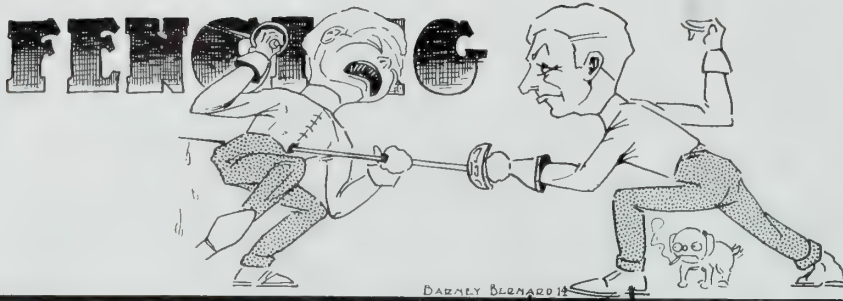

With a good start from the year before Illinois came to the front rapidly in wrestling. It was Coach Elston's second year with the men, and he developed some excellent wrestlers. The season started with a dual meet at the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. As a minor sport wrestling does not attract heavy-weight men, but the team had the good fortune of having a middle weight, Leichseuring, who could win in both classes.

INDIANAPOLIS Y. M. C. A.-ILLINOIS

Colombo, I.	Featherweight	Defeated Warwig, Y. M. C. A.	17 min., 53 sec.
Schroeder, I.	Lightweight	Defeated Webb, Y. M. C. A.	9 min., 30 sec.
Cutler, I.	Welterweight	Defeated Westfall, Y. M. C. A.	15 min., 50 sec.
Leichseuring, I.	Middleweight	Defeated Hardin, Y. M. C. A.	3 min., 52 sec.
Leichseuring, I.	Heavyweight	Defeated Heavyutt, Y. M. C. A.	12 min., 55 sec.

In the dual gymnastic meet with Chicago only two wrestlers entered for Chicago. Cutler and Leichseuring won for Illinois.

In the Conference, Illinois showed the worth of her coaching. The division of weights eliminated Cutler, leaving three men entered in four events. Seven universities were in competition. When the bouts were over, it showed Colombo second in the featherweights, Leichseuring second in the middleweight division, and Captain Schroeder first of the lightweights. Minnesota tied us for first place in points, but lost the trophy. From taking but one second place to winning the Conference Championship in one year, the Illinois team showed wonderful improvement.

Illinois completed a very successful season in fencing by winning the Conference Championship in the meet held at Wisconsin. Although three men comprise a team for the dual meets, each university is allowed only one representative for each branch of fencing. Captain Sayre represented Illinois in both foils and broad-swords taking second in foils and first in broad-swords. This tied him with Merrill of Chicago, who was first in foils and second in broad-swords. Captain Sayre won the Championship on the toss up.

Because of his experience and knowledge of the sport Pengilly was secured to coach for this year, and with Schurecht as the only veteran, he has had the task of building up a team from new material. With a dual meet scheduled with Chicago for March 21, 1914, Illinois is handicapped by the withdrawal from school of Du-Bois and Messler. Pengilly, however, expects his team to make a good showing against Chicago and at the Conference Meet in April.

BEEBE

Owing to the fact that the 1913 Conference Tennis Meet was held at Chicago during the week of final examinations at Illinois, the tennis team was deprived of all opportunity to win Conference honors. In the only Conference match played at Illinois during 1913, Atkinson and Claflin defeated the Northwestern tennis team in both singles and doubles.

The Fall tournament for the University championship was interrupted by early rains, and is to be continued this spring. The large amount of good material from the last year's Freshman class makes the outlook promising for the 1914 team, and Illinois should be a strong bidder for the Conference Championship, at the annual meet in June.

ILLINOIS-TEXAS

Illinois was defeated in both doubles and singles held May 2, 1914, by Broad and Stacy of the University of Texas. Broad defeated Salazar two straight sets 7-5, 6-2 while Stacy took Claflin into camp winning two sets out of three, the score being 7-5, 4-6 and 6-3. The doubles went to Texas in two straight sets 6-4 and 9-7. All of the matches were warmly contested and afforded considerable interest to the spectators.

MILLIKIN-ILLINOIS

By winning six straight matches Illinois finished the dual tennis meet with James Millikin University on May 9th, with a perfect score. The Illinois men only lost two sets out of the fourteen that were played in the tournament. Millikin was represented by four men, Busher, Long, Claflin and Gill. The Illini team consisted of Claflin, Salazar, Moses and Buhai. The victory was especially gratifying considering the fact that Millikin holds the "Little Seven" tennis title and it is evident that the Illinois team will be strong contenders for the conference title.

REVIEW OF THE SEASON

Illinois four-man team landed second place in the western inter-collegiate last June. Chicago finished first, four strokes ahead of Illinois. C. L. Grimes won the individual championship for Chicago.

The annual University championship attracted a field of 48 players. The low medal score in the qualifying round went to E. C. Prouty, J. M. Kehler, and H. R. Walton are the survivors for the final match.

Chances for a championship team at the intercollegiate are exceedingly bright with the following men playing for Illinois: J. M. Kehler, '14; L. R. Gurley, '15; E. C. Prouty, '14; F. H. White, '16; and H. R. Walton, '17.

Freshman Varsity Football Team

There is probably no team in the University, that does as much work, and receives less recognition, than does the Freshman Varsity Football Team. In lieu of this fact, Mawanda, the Senior Society, suggested that this year the Freshman team be given a banquet. The only stumbling block was the financing of the affair, and therefore the proposition was put up to the fraternities. The fraternities and clubs of the University agreed to finance the banquet, if Mawanda would manage it. Consequently, on December 16, 1913, the banquet was given at the Beardsley Hotel. Speeches were given by the coach, "G." Huff, and Captain-elect Chapman, with the idea to inspire the players, and to give the Freshmen a sense of responsibility, and an idea of what they owe to the University, aside from their own personal gain and glory.

The ILLIO Athletic Department wishes to commend Mawanda on its action, with the hopes that the good work may be continued from year to year, and its ultimate end be accomplished.

Class Athletics

Class Athletics have shown a marked improvement in the past year. Greater interest has been manifested than in previous years and resulted in more efficient teams. This is due to the new system of management inaugurated two years ago. During 1913 there were six hundred and twenty-four students taking active part in Class Athletics, double that of the previous year.

Class Athletics now affords competition in all of the major and minor sports. In the year just passed, Class Swimming teams were organized with highly gratifying results. The plans are now being made for the organization of lightweight football teams to play for a separate class championship.

This year has witnessed a decided improvement over the teams of previous years. Varsity material has often been found in the rank of the class teams. No one knows his athletic ability until he has taken an active part in some form of athletics. The department of Class Athletics is primarily for the purpose of affording those an opportunity who are not eligible for Varsity competition, to gain physical development and exercise.

Class Football

This year Class Football aroused more interest than ever before. Better teams battled for the class championship and at every game a large number of loyal enthusiasts cheered their teams for a victory. Coaches were hired by each class, who greatly helped in development of good teams. Officials also paid to officiate at all of the games, causing them to be run off in a more systematic manner.

The Seniors were the undefeated champions, repeating their record of the previous year. The Sophomores placed second, being defeated only by the Seniors; the Freshmen and the Juniors finished in third and fourth places respectively.

At the completion of the season the Daily Illini selected an all class team based on the ability of the player and the amount of time he played.

Review of Class Baseball

Last year the same system of Class Baseball competition was used as the year previous; that of forming a team from each class in the different Colleges of the University, and each in competition for the right to play in the championship series.

The College of Agriculture and the College of Science were equally represented in the final series, each having two teams. The Senior and the Freshmen Ag's were the winners in their respective classes, and the Sophomore and the Junior Science in theirs. The Junior Ag's won the championship by defeating all other competitors.

Last year seventeen teams were organized, but this year only thirteen will play for the championship. This is due to the combining of the College of Literature and Arts with that of the College of Science. This spring should witness better material and should afford keener competition in the games to be played.

Class Basketball Review

The system of conducting indoor Basketball was changed from that of last year in which class teams from all Colleges were organized. Because of the inadequate floor space in the gymnasium, only five teams were organized this year, one from each class, and a Post Graduate team.

The Sophomore team brought the championship to their class by their aggressive style of playing upon the floor and their superior team work. The Freshmen finished second, with the Post-Graduate team close upon their heels. While the Senior and the Junior teams had to be satisfied with fourth and fifth places respectively, although they both deserved to be placed higher.

Outdoor Basketball teams created a large amount of interest last fall. The Sophomores also won this series and under the leadership of Captain Stumpf, they went through the entire season without a single defeat. The other classes finished as follows: Freshmen, Seniors, and Juniors.

The Inter-Class Bowling tournament proved a runaway for the Junior Class, (present Seniors) as they won 18 out of 21 games; losing games to the Post-Grads, Faculty, and Senior teams. The seniors finished in second place, with the Post-Grads in third. The men that composed the Junior team were: Peeples, Captain; Gamble; Fisher; Healy; and Richardson. Gamble and Peeples were on the Sophomore team of the preceding year which won the class championship easily. The '14 class teams have won two championships and are battling for a third, although the odds are against them.

This year the Faculty team, strengthened by Schoville, Comstock, and Noerenberg, three of the best bowlers in the University, seem to have the chance for first place, as results so far have shown.

INTER-FRATERNITY BOWLING

The Fraternity bowling teams this year have shown keen interest, and the competition is so close that the winners cannot be predicted in any of the events. The highest Inter-Fraternity score of 509 up to March 20 is held by the Delta Upsilon team. They hold also the individual five man team score of 892, made on December 20.

The Woman's Athletic Association

The Women's Athletic Association of the University of Illinois has been established for several years, but recently it was given a new impetus by the adoption of a revised constitution. This defines its purpose as one to promote mental and moral efficiency thru physical development. Girls are now beginning to realize the possibility of physical training in an educational way, not only physically but mentally as well. It teaches co-ordination of mental and muscular faculties, which tend to make clear thinkers and efficient actors. A student who is interested in physical training courses need no longer await recognition from members of the Association. If she wishes to become a member, she may apply by presenting her name and points earned in the physical training courses, to the Executive and Advisory Boards of the Association. The Advisory Board consists of the members of the department of physical training because they are capable of judging all prospective candidates with greatest accuracy. This method of securing members broadens the scope of activity, makes the association more inclusive, more democratic, and more representative of the entire student body. Many new features have been added to the department of athletics which interest an ever increasing number of students. Chief among those added this year is the sport of field hockey, one that was taken up with a great deal of enthusiasm, and has become well established here. The remodelled gymnasiums give more room for apparatus work in physical training, while the classes in swimming are highly popular, although the pool is small and totally insufficient for the needs of the students. Still another new development of these courses is one of special investigation and individual correction of physical deficiencies. Any of these courses may count for points in securing admission into the Athletic Association and in this manner are encouraged by it. One of the prerequisites for membership is a good scholastic record, as physical ability and mental efficiency should go hand in hand. In order to insure more perfect attendance it has been found necessary to drop a name from the membership list for two successive unexcused absences from regular meetings. If one wishes to retain active membership she must continue in some phase of physical education which adds credit to her point record. Every girl earning her numerals succeeds in promoting the best interests and upholding the ideals of the W. A. A., and long may she continue in her course.

Kerrigan—Come on, Healy, yu poor bum, deal them cards.

Healy—Stick around, stick around, yu freckled face turk.

Chapman—Misdeal, misdeal, I only got six cards.

Healy—Shut up, Duvy, nobody's a goin to rob yu. Here's yer other card.

Richmond—Look at the mitful, some hand, every card's got a picture on it. If we were playin fer money I'd have to get a mortgage on Prophetstown.

Kerrigan—Say Cop, yu otta heard what "Nig" said about yu today.

Healy—I don't care what "Nig" said about me. I'm off with that guy. What did he say about me?

Chapman—Come on, come on, if youse guys don't stop chewin the rag an play cards I'm a goin to quit and go over the the Theta house.

Richmond—Go on over to the Theta house and see if we care. We didn't want yu in the game in the first place. Coyle, tell one of them freshmen to go across the street an' get Snapper Belnap to come over an' take Duvy's hand.

Healy—Remember the losers have to buy the drinks and smokes at Harrison Meads.

Keerigan—I hope not, I hope not. Healy gets us in the game and when he starts to win he makes the ground rules. Nothin' shakin, Copper, nothin shakin. I'm going to quit (throws down his cards and tangoes up stairs).

Richmond—Well, youse guys make me tired. Here Sloughy goes fussin' and Red gets sore and quits. Healy, you and me are the only regular guys in the chapter. Lets go up town and see if we can't find Nig Healy or some of the Psi U's.

ACT I.

(Night before Junior Prom)

SCENE—Chamber of Horrors in Kink's Palace.

DUKE DAVENPORT—"My liege, methinks this council is a mighty body. Forsoothe but yesterday did T. N. E. yield up the ghost."

T'ARKLE—"Ay, and our foster child, Ma-Wan-Da, doth prosper 'neath our care."

CHORUS—"Tis well, tis well. We are a mighty body."

DUKE KENDRICK—"But list ye, councilers, what is this evil in our midst—this dawnee they call the twango."

QUEEN MARTHA (rising to her stately height)—"Me Lords, profess ye ignorant of this dreadful plague? I do beseech ye, sirs, let me recount its dire effects. But yesternight in Bradley Hall I went myself a scouting. There held some frat' their annual ball. You should have heard them shouting. Such antics and such motions my eyes could scarce discern. Methinks they are the devil's notions. Forsoothe some day—they'll burn."

KINLEY—"Me honor'd lady, this news it doth appall me. Me liege, we nee'st must wrestle with this weighty question."

T'ARKLE—"Solicitor, what know you of this tango innovation?"

HARKER—"If you please, me liege, it was but yester night. I did but scan the Chicago American wherein I found this selfsame dance condemned. I will a copy get."

CHORUS—"Stay, stay, 'Tis enough. The tango dance we'll ban." (Exeunt)

FOOL (singing)

ACT II.

LITERARY CLUB

BLONDY BOLHFLIEG I'll meet you at the library at nine o'clock.

THE SILLIO

SCENE 1 (On the street in front of Bert Spalding's) Time; Afternoon of the day of the Junior Prom. Subjects of the Kink, soldiers, murderers, etc.

FIRST STUDENT—"My word, these Dukes are a bad mixture; naught but bums; but for their brainless edict we could this night perform upon the Armory floor, the slides and dips and fancy twists that she and I have practiced."

SECOND STUDENT—"Aye, and I have spent many shekles upon the learning thereof with some expert tangoist from von Chicago."

THIRD STUDENT—"Tis true, 'tis true; but listen good brother, I needs must mooch a deadly scag;—Ah, Now a match."

Kink T'Arkle Lark

FIRST STUDENT—"Are you good men and true? Let's frame a deal whereby this rule will go for naught. When Bill the Deak first pounds the ivory keys then will we three in boldness scorn the edict of the dukes and pull the roughest stuff we know."

CHORUS—"Ha! Ha! We'll scorn the edict of the dukes and pull the roughest stuff we know. (Exeunt Laughing.)"

SCENE 2 (At the Junior Prom)

Time: (Evening of the same day)

Students with their partners and others in attendance.

FIRST STUDENT—"The dance is more than half gone and we still wait to mock our master. Why, my colleague, do you not keep your word?"

SECOND STUDENT—"I did wait for our friend to start and but for that I would be dancing now. Ah! my poor staggering limbs can scarcely bear me up because of antiquated movement. What do you?"

THIRD STUDENT—"I did wait for you. Alas, all is lost! But tell me, friend, what is that dance our majesty Queen Martha is doing? Methinks I never saw the like of that before. Tell me, I crave your answer."

SECOND STUDENT—"I know it not. It is, perhaps, some dance that our fathers have preserved for us and she is doing homage to their memory, but look you! See yonder that blonde dancer of the tribe of Fi Sig. Tell me, by the Gods above what does he do upon the dance floor?"

FIRST STUDENT—"I cannot guess your answer, but mark ye, each of this tribe does do a dance unlike the rest, and I say perhaps it be of their kind.

CHORUS—"Perhaps; who knows? 'tis a barbarous clan.

THIRD STUDENT—"Mark you, my brothers; tomorrow will bring dire tidings to those who have displeased the kink tonight. I am myself pleased that we have no offenses brought."

CHORUS—"Aye, but I did not forebear because of fear for the king. (Exeunt)

ACT III.

SCENE 1 (Sorority Pan-Hellenic Meeting)

TIME: One month later

CHARACTERS—Queen Martha and unfair co-eds.

FIRST CO-ED—"Sisters, we are down and out. No longer are we sought by fussy spenders of the kale. This tango band we didst put upon ourselves, has't made wall flowers of us all."

SECOND CO-ED—"The sister speaks rightly. It has been a fortnight since I have had a date. Ye Gods and Little Fishes, I do forsee our finish. "

THIRD CO-ED—"Tis true; and soon no longer will the boys buy drinks, and eats, and tickets to the show."

FOURTH CO-ED—"I will a motion make before this house to kill these antiquated dances ere they kill us."

QUEEN MARTHA—"Alas, Alas! With one fell swoop you wouldst undo what took me months to do."

FIRST CO-ED—"The question is before the house. Do ye rescind your present stand?"

CHORUS—"We d — o."

SCENE 2—Kink's Palace, Chamber of Horrors.

TIME—Next day.

CHARACTERS—Same as Act I.

T ARKLE LARK—"Councilers, we are called together to reconsider that which has blighted the welfare of our social functions.

QUEEN MARTHA—"I hope not blighted; rather would I say fumigated."

DUKE DAVENPORT—"My liege, I would report that Elsie Janis says the Tango is O. K."

DUKE KINLEY—" 'Tis enough, Our former action we'll rescind."

CHORUS (except Q. M.) "Our former action we'll rescind."

How Happy We Would Be

If things would be as students say,
 How happy we would be.
 If everything went just our way,
 How happy we would be.
 If English 1 would be no more
 If Baldwin wouldn't be a bore—
 And cease to look as tho he's sore,
 How happy we would be.

If the Illini would get some news,
 How happy we would be.
 If T. A. 'd let the students booze.
 How happy we would be.
 If registration was not a joke,
 And ole Dean Miller we could choke,
 And on the campus we could smoke,
 How happy we would be.

If Dean Clark were not so wise,
 How happy we would be.
 If Ramsey left off his disguise,
 How happy we would be.
 If the lunchrooms would get grub that's new—
 Cut out their baked beans, beef and stew;
 Not make us wait an hour or two,
 How happy we would be.

If "Tite Wad" wouldn't be so tight
 How happy we would be.
 If we didn't have to work at night,
 How happy we would be.
 If "Copper" Healy might be dean,
 If Carlisle weren't so long and lean;
 And Freshmen didn't look so green—
 How happy we would be.

ODE TO P. D.'S BLUE STOCKINGS

She wore them in the morning,
And she wore them in the night,
Well she wore those blue stockings the whole year round—
While the holes were out of sight.

Coming down the street ,
Is a man so short and fat
I see he is a Senior,
For he wears a Senior hat.

Behind him meekly follows
A student long and lean,
Those books are not all his
Because his hat is green.

He who knows, and knows he knows,
He is a Zeta Psi,
He who knows and knows not he knows
He is an Alpha Delt.
He who knows not and knows not he knows not
He is a Theta Delt.
He who knows not and knows he knows not
He is a Psi U.

All dressed up and no place to go.
—ED. BARRETT.

Popularity Contest

WHO IN 1914 HAS DONE THE MOST FOR THE UNIVERSITY? How?

"Dad" Fogerty won by a large majority because of his faithful work during the February blizzard. "Shorty" Kneisley ran a close second owing to the superb manner in which he manipulated the spring opera. "Ed" Berry deserves mention because of his peerless leadership of the Student Union.

WHO IS THE BEST ATHLETE?

George Newell easily won because of the tidiness of his apparel. It is alleged that he received a majority of the women votes. "Phil" Armour's cheerleading won him ten votes, and "SOMEONE" slipped in a ballot for "Gene" Schobinger.

WHO THINKS HE IS?

MacDonald, the plunger, walked away from all entries in this event, but "Gene" Schobinger showed up again with a number of votes. "Laddie" McKeown was forced into third place because of these two stars.

WHO IS THE MOST VERSATILE?

Hale Plahn Daugherty's many talents; journalist, basketball player, pianist, humorist, expectoratorist, fusser, politician, tangoist, and charity worker won for him the place of honor. Leonidas Willing Ramsey took second with the following talents; landscape gardener, "humorist", modiste, playwright, magician, pool shark, waiter, temperamentalist, and last but not least, the Bard of the Millsaps. They should congratulate each other.

WHO IS THE BEST STUDENT?

Because of the withdrawal of "Cop" Healy, "Billiken" Wansborough, and "Gruntz" Claycomb, the high vote fell to "Nig" Healy. Someone took the contest as a joke and voted for the Zeta Psi chapter.

WHO IS THE BIGGEST BLUFFER?

Roswell Francis Field bluffed all other contestants out of the field.

WHO IS THE HANDSOMEST MAN?

We are beginning to think there is something crooked,—the same votes that were cast for Ramsey in the Versatile class again appear in this department. Can it be collusion? Rohlfing with his Quaker Oats smile and his rose-pink cheeks took a mild second, while some misguided youth voted for Dutch Burger.

WHO THINKS HE IS?

"Les" Ayres won by many votes followed by "Ed" Barrett. Any further comment is unnecessary. "Yes" says "Les," "I do, but no one agrees with me."

WHO IS THE BEST TALKER?

"Shorty" Kneiseley's immemorial speech at the presentation of the Mask and Bauble play in the fall placed him an easy first. "Snapper" Belnap, on account of his half hour talks on one minute preparation, deserved every vote he obtained, while Ropiequet was forced into third place.

WHO IS THE BIGGEST FUSSEY?

"Joe" Pitts is evidently our chief devil with the ladies for he won in a walk. "Chet" Prouty ran well until he concentrated too much and had to be content with second place. Denz and George Richmond also ran.

THE SILLIO

WHO IS THE SPORTIEST GUY?

"Jack" Griffin's yellow suit at once took the lead and his position was really never in danger. "Dutch" Schleuter took second,—he's so decidedly eastern, doncher know. Comstock was the choice for third.

WHO TRIES TO BE?

Rodney Vansant was first for obvious reasons. "Si" Frailey, though burdened with his actor's overcoat was not far in the rear, while "Pete" Wright's assortment of political vests won him a place.

WHO IS THE BIGGEST GRIND?

The girls finally won a place and put "B" Copley in the lead. Williford's record went against him and he fell into second place. There were no entries from the Ag school.

WHO IS THE MOST CONCEITED?

The majority of the voters seemed to think that Cocky Brannon's efforts should be crowned with success and they gave him this honor by a small margin. "Yid" Casner with his ever-ready review of his Burger again showed, but the voters failed to make known what it was that Dutch had to be conceited about.

WHO IS THE LEAST RELIGIOUS?

By winning this event, "Chet" Hemphill satisfied a long cherished desire to be recognized as a real devil. "Sis" Knowlton's winning ways and girlish manner marked him at once as a favorite in this class but he had to be satisfied with second place. "Bill" Crutchfield was third. On interview, "Chet" expressed himself as well pleased by gaining first place out of this classy field.

WHO IS THE BIGGEST TANK?

This was a landslide for "Eddie" Reber who got nearly every vote that was cast. "Pete" Chips captured second with the rest of the votes, one of which it is rumored was his own.

WHO TRIES TO BE?

While beaten in the last event, "Pete" romped away with this one. He explains it because Reber does not have to try,—it just comes natural. There were a few scattering votes which were for the most part confined to "Pete's" associates.

WHO IS THE WORST KNOCKER?

"Dutch" Burger and George Bargh, as assistant editors of the Illini, were evenly matched for first place because of their consistent knocking of their own paper. There were several entries in this class from the faculty, the most notable being Professor Litman.

"I like purty women, and good clothes, and music. Gee, I-I shoah 'nough like swell people."—
"BUCK" RAMSEY.

THE SILLIO

The D. K. E.'s did give a party
T'was a formal one, you know
A dinner dance, quite an affair
They sure did make a show.

They tried to save their money
By borrowing from their friends
They asked for furniture and rugs
And numerous odds and ends.

One true and lo-yal member
Who knew their funds were low,
Gave to the cause his birthday gift
Nine hundred, his roll of dough.

Of course the Thetas were all there
Dressed in their very best
There was a girl or two from town
Imports made up the rest.

Royal Oaths of Allegiance

DELTA TAU DELTA

I promise to keep sacred the town name of Aurora and will never let my obligations to my fraternity suffer because of outside activities. I will obey Bert Nelson in all that he says and will help to pay off the indebtedness on the new house.

SIGMA CHI

I believe in spring celebrations. I believe in the safety afforded in numbers and promise to treat my brother like any other neighbor.

KAPPA SIGMA

The text of my life shall be wine, women and song. I believe that advertising is the keystone to success and admit that honors gained through pledges are better than no honors at all and hold that it is never too late to pledge.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

I trust in the appearance of the new house for rushing, in athletes to bring about our prestige, in luck and bluffing to keep me in school, and in the grace and ease to be derived from attending the socials at Bongart's.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

I believe in the purity of Theta Nu Epsilon and trust in the ultimate success of Sophomore politics. I shall strive to obtain the peace and contentment that is to be derived from a quiet and purposeless existence.

BETA THETA PI

I believe that the scribe is mightier than the athlete, and promise to nourish and foster the Siren, acquire laurels in the publication of the Illio and forever guard the Illini from the possession of the enemy.

SIGMA NU

I promise never to have my picture taken unless in full dress attire, and believe that dances pave the way towards social success.

DELTA UPSILON

I promise to be an Ag and an athlete.

THETA DELTA CHI

I promise to defend Theta Nu Epsilon from the criticism of an unappreciative public. I will flaunt the colors of my fraternity upon the stage and will ever retain our strangle hold on Mask and Bauble and the Dramatic Club.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

I believe in the benefits to be derived from exclusiveness and promise to honor wealth and social position. I will forever proclaim our eastern reputation and will pay homage to our Alumni in Chicago.

ZETA PSI

I pledge my honor to obtain scholastic honors even at the expense of good fellowship and promise to govern my conduct according to the rules as laid down in the University Book of Regulations. I believe military to be the main activity of the University, and will forever strive for martial honors.

THE SILLIO

PSI Upsilon

I believe in the almighty dollar and place my confidence in the prestige of an eastern reputation. I pledge my efforts to better the political conditions of the student body to the exclusion of my personal interests.

Phi Sigma Kappa

I believe that dress makes the man and will keep my attire immaculate to the latest innovation of neckware. I promise never to hesitate to borrow money and will always pay my debts within a reasonable time.

Phi Delta Theta

I swear that I will keep fresh the memory of all of our Alumni and will consult them in all matters of trivial importance. As a benefit to the general fraternity I promise to maintain a station of refuge for all wandering brothers.

Alpha Tau Omega

I agree to be a gentleman and a scholar. I promise to abide by the rules and regulations of the Council of Administration and will never cause disgrace to fall upon the name of my fraternity,—so help me Thomas Arkle.

Phi Gamma Delta

On bended knee I do promise and declare never to use vulgar or slang expressions. I promise to become an ardent member of the Christian Endeavor League and will lend my aid to suppress evil throughout the world.

Chi Phi

I bet that I can drink as much as any man here and challenge the world in the professional use of profane language and in the long distance mastication of plug tobacco.

Chi Psi

I believe in the experience that old age will bring to the young and unsophisticated and promise to keep out of the public eye until I see the result of the future generations.

Alpha Delta Phi

I believe that Roosevelt is primarily an Alpha Delt and promise to defend him against the pretensions of a certain rival fraternity. I believe in the supremacy of literary genius and place my confidence in the prestige of a national reputation and in the influence of our Alumni.

So you need another poem; Gosh Boy, you aint talkin' now to me;
My brain's just about as fertile as the Adriatic sea.
Come on, sit down, take life easy, watch the bunch go passin' by;
There goes T. A. into Prexie's— 'Course not, how the deuce should I know why?

Sure, he said that he would call you. Naw, 3-7-7-4.
Come on, sit down for a minute. Oh Goat, if you're leaving shut the door.
Here comes Coyle from the Co-op, Gosh but would you pipe the lid;
He's the guy that turned down Adams on her Theta formal bid.

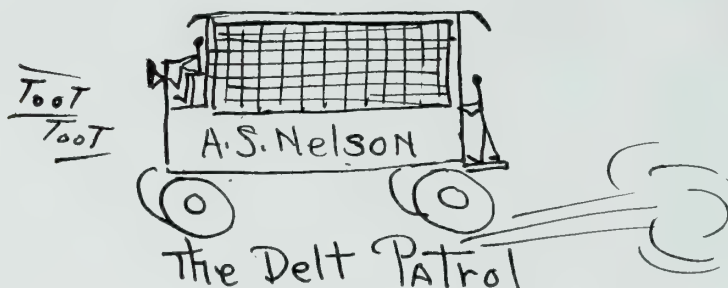

What's the button there on Kelly?— No—say don't things happen queer?
Politics will do a lot now—Holy man Boy, look what's here,
Quite some beby eh what Barlow?—Sure I know her, Danville stuff.
Yeh, she punches keys for Miller, Naw she isn't very rough.

There goes Stevenson down Wright street.—You're darn right, but there's no chance
It's that little Alpha Tau kid,—Yes an you should see him dance.
You didn't hear about that scandal? Aw well maybe you're too young.
Sh—I think Sid Casner's listenin' there's a guy that should be hung.

Look at Barrett there with Barker,—Gosh now isn't that a pair?
What's the use, she doesn't mind it; sure she likes to have you stare.
Did you pipe that Sig?—He's gone now, passed two courses out of nine.
Good Lord, here comes Fisher with that D—d insurance line.

Hasn't he been in to see you?—I should think that cut would sting,
Honest, Boy, you know it's funny, I can't hand that guy a thing.
Well lad, sorry if you can't stay longer, all the bunch will soon be out,
Guess I'll go and take a glimmer at tomorrow's Campus Scout.

MOLINE ATHLETE GOES BACK TO UNIVERSITY

Elmer Claar left today to resume his studies at the University of Illinois, where he hopes to win further laurels in athletics this season. Last year he showed up well in the high jump and discus throw, competing with larger men in both events. His high jump of from 5 feet 9 inches to 5 feet 11, and his discus throwing of 115 feet is remarkable in view of the fact that he is but 5 feet 8 inches in height and weighs 145 pounds. Usually men who compete in the high jump are 6 feet or better, while it is rare that a light man is formidable with the discus. Besides being a remarkable athlete for his size Claar bears the distinction of having the smallest male foot at the university. He wears a No. 4 shoe.

Kappa Sigma Fraternity,

Dear Sirs,-

We are herewith inclosing you a bill for the lodging and feeding of your two freshmen, the Jack brothers. Food stuff is very high at present and the chapter feels that we should not have to bear this extra expense. You will, no doubt see this in the right light.

We are making the amount as low as possible, and considering the amount they ate, you are getting off cheap. And there were two of them also.

Trusting that you will give this item of the amount stated, $12.00 for board and $10.00 for room rent, your prompt attention as we want to pay some bills on the first of the month, we are

We are inclosing you statement received from the Sigma Nu Fraternity for board and lodging given to the two Jack brothers. We were put to considerable expense on account of your man Bart Mc. Cumber and we hereby turn this over to you fellows to pay.

We realize that the bill is pretty large for one man to stand for, but you know Bart eats a lot and then we took him to a lot of shows etc.,

Col. C. W. Fowler, Kentucky
Military Institute, Eau
Gallie, Florida.

Dear Colonel:

I realize that a great deal of my success in college has been due to K. M. I. And when I say success in college I mean it,
for I have done very well.

This space reserved for N. McK. Kneisly and his letter to K. M. I.

Sincerely yours,

N. McK. KNEISLY

We're riding along where the zepthers are cool
And where persons are pleasant and nice;
Far, far from the rule of this pesky ole school
Where we're shakin' as though we were dice.
In a car big and snug we go "chugety-chug"
O'er the road so even and clear;
So snug like your mug in a big foamy jug
And as calm as a pitcher of beer.

Our life is a tale of ineffable joy ;
When we think of the trouble we've caused;
And we gloat in our bliss "There is no life like this"
But we may have to come back some day and meet our victims.

To begin with, the Champaign is an all-metal refrigerator. It is substantially enamelled inside and out in pure white, with solid brass trimming, heavily nickelled.

Call or write the factory and have this thoroughly new and up-to-the-last-minute refrigerator demonstrated and completely explained to you. It is worth while.

Fuel for Your Think Furnace—

Royal A. Stipes sells coal—good coal and lots of it. Stipes coal is the real thing in maximum heat giving with minimum trouble. It makes a clean, dependable fire and burns to a powdery fine ash—in fact it's simply good fuel with the "trouble" left out.

Stipes does business in hundred thousand ton lots. To him the mysteries of "buying right" are as an open book. Folks who buy of him reap the benefit of his buying ability. Ho, Mephisto, slice the fires a little, there's a pair of tangoists on the slide!

We pride ourselves on the effect of our work.

When you want something extra swell in a banquet in honor of some particular event let us figure with you. You know, of course the more money you put into a banquet the more pleasure and pride you get out of it, and of course the more expense we are enabled to go to. We are always open to suggestions. Tell us what you think; it won't hurt our feelings.

Cranks on Sanitation

The Champaign Ice Cream Company are "Sanitation" cranks. To begin with, they built their own, sanitary factory. Just any old building wasn't good enough for them, so they had to have one made to their particular order, fitted with their own particular machinery and apparatus for producing strictly sanitary and absolutely clean Ice Cream.

In all this they have succeeded. A model plant is theirs and their product is everything that could be desired.

Oct. 15—The council decides to abolish pushball for a milder form of a class scrap.

On this day George gave a fair co-ed friend two bits to give him a knock down to a very attractive co-ed in the library. PRACTICABILITY

The CORONA is to the typewriter as the fountain pen to the quill.

The CORONA is on exhibition at Lloyd's. We invite your inspection and confidently predict your enthusiastic approval.

STUDENT EFFICIENCY

To the university student, the CORONA is an innovation at once practical and economical. Its universal keyboard and ball bearing typebar give it an ease of operation that is easily and pleasantly mastered.

The advantages of a typewriter to a student are obvious. The added advantages of a convenient typewriter at half the customary price are so within the reach of every student of whatever means, and are so pronounced, that the systematic, business-like student, should be more than interested. We gladly offer a machine for trial without obligation of any sort.

The Gift One May Give One's Self

Says Aurbach, German philosopher and thinker, "Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life." To be able to interpret the compositions of the masters either vocally or instrumentally, is the one valuable gift in the world that one may make to oneself.

The Dickson Voice and Piano School is a school of exceptional musical training, where the technique of musicianship is never allowed to overshadow the development of musical feeling and feeling musical interpretation.

Our Trade-Mark  stands today, as it has stood for more than two-score years, for the highest efficiency to be found in dentist's supplies.

It is placed only on the products of our own factories, where every step of the manufacturing is under surveillance, where frequent inspections and tests assure the high standard which must be maintained to merit our trade-mark.

It is the hallmark of superiority in dentists' supplies.

It stands for intelligent, never-tiring effort toward greater perfection in their manufacture; for the upward progression of practical dentistry,—because the instruments and appliances which bear it help the dentist to realize his highest conception of what his work should be.

Always it means full value in service.

Build For The Future

*True Road Building Economy
Demands the Use of Concrete*

The long life and low upkeep charge of the concrete road or street as compared with the short life and high maintenance cost of other types of pavements, make concrete the most economical for the community where permanence is desired, rather than a mere make-shift with a high and everlasting upkeep charge.

To build an expensive pavement that will not stand modern traffic is false economy. To build of concrete is an example of good judgment and best for all parties concerned.

This Interesting
Pamphlet
FREE TO YOU

This pamphlet contains interesting figures on cost of maintenance, durability, utility and fancied objections to concrete, as well as several tables of data on the construction of hundreds of concrete pavements. Write for a copy.

Typewrite Your Notes

How many times a college graduate is heard to exclaim, "If I only had copies of my notes under Prof. ———."

Why hasn't he? Because he has no typewriter with which to put them into proper shape. After two or three years, he cannot remember the work his notes mentioned and in disgust he throws them away.

Non-collegians often ask, "What good does a college course do?" On the defensive, the graduate has to admit that he has forgotten almost all he learned in college, but takes refuge in asserting generalities about culture, mental training, etc.

Now suppose the student writes notes on a typewriter and retains carbon copies of them for future reference. In the first place, by going at his college course in a workmanlike manner, he gains the confidence of his professors. He submits his essays and theses in neat, typewritten manuscript. He receives higher marks than the man who hands in illegible, hand-written matter.

The L. C. Smith & Bros. typewriter is the favorite with college students, because it is easy to operate and durable. It has ball bearings at all points where friction tends to develop.

No matter what your future work in life may be, the knowledge of how to run a typewriter will prove of great benefit.

NOW IS THE TIME TO START RIGHT!
